Officials Continue Probe Into Mystery Slaying Of Bachelor Rea

DRESS LIKE KING?
WILL FEELS SORRY
FOR JOE ROBINSON

(Special To The News)
LONDON, Jan. 17.—Landed here at 2 yesterday afternoon by lamp-light.

Our peace pilgrims arrive at Plymouth Rock today. Morning papers here today announce the type of clothes to be worn at the opening by the king on Tuesday. Says every one is to dress the same as the king.

I am here as official observer for the Democrats and social adviser to Senator Joe Robinson, minority member of the delegation, and I am going to have a tough time making that suit of Joe's look like anything the king ever owned.

So if Joe and I don't get in you will know there wasn't anything we could put on so that we would be mistaken for King George.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

State police today questioned a young man as to his whereabouts Wednesday night when Clark Rea was shot and killed in his home near Coalton road, Neshannock township. State police it is reported were satisfied with his story.

Sirus Clark Rea, 60, Neshannock township eccentric who was shot and killed allegedly by three young robbers Wednesday night had a premonition he would be robbed and killed according to his brother, E. H. Rea, about 55, who is held today in the county jail as a material witness. So far no arrests have been made but police are searching for several suspects for questioning.

Thursday afternoon, E. H. Rea, a witness to the murder in the squallid home immediately off the Coalton road, was removed from a city police cell and questioned by county state and city authorities.

Reaps Story

The aged man, who is as eccentric as his brother, described again the manner in which the murder and holdup occurred and told how he had crouched in a corner and begged his life to be saved while one of the robbers held a gun against his forehead.

Questioned about a dream he is supposed to have had, E. H. Rea told the authorities that he had not had the dream but that several days prior to the holdup and crime his brother, known as Clark, had described to him as having had a dream in which he was to be robbed and killed.

At first he was reticent and later said: "It is too terrible to tell." He denied he had had the dream.

Gradually the statement was developed that his brother had described the dream to him.

In the dream his brother was supposed to have had a premonition of "bad crops," "fires around the field," and of the holdup. He said they took no effort to protect themselves.

The aged man, considerably eccentric in his ways shuddered and at times his breath came in short gasps.

The two brothers worried over the dream and in one of their conversations it is said, the brother said to E. H. Rea:

"What will we do when spring comes?"

"We will have to do the best we can," E. H. Rea replied.

At the time of the shooting they were standing with their backs to the fireplace to get warm.

He maintained his original story

PA NEWC
OBSERVES

The mercury registered only seven degrees this morning, compared with 59 last Tuesday, which is quite a change.

The cold snap has sent local streams down fast. The Neshannock is now almost at a normal level, while the Shenango has fallen close to three feet in the last two days.

Need for a new directory listing the inhabitants of New Castle is being clearly shown every day. Information contained in the present directory was compiled in 1927 and the directory was issued in 1928. Practically three years have elapsed since this time, during which there have been a great number of changes in the population here.

Sled-riding is in vogue again, since the heavy snowfall and the sleds are getting dusted off for use.

There is evidently one auto owner in this city that is not at all akin to taking a chance with his shiny new car. A news noted it parked on Highland avenue hill, yesterday afternoon, while autos were skidding all over the street. If the car escaped without being damaged, it is sort of a miracle.

Traffic cop Tommy Jones, who presides over the corner of Mill and Washington streets did a little safety work on his own accord yesterday. When the snowfall made the sidewalks and street skiddy, he noted a number of folks falling to the pavement, he secured a bag of salt, and sprinkled it over the crossing.

The slippery hills about New Castle proved to certain motorists late Thursday afternoon and in the early evening. The newly fallen snow of the afternoon made driving hazardous. On the Highland avenue and Jefferson street hills were some of the worst jams Pa Newc has ever seen. Soon after the snow fell, Jefferson was ashed while Highland was ashed up to the curve. Above the curve there was nothing but ice. The East Washington and Croton avenue hills also brought considerable trouble.

Proof that New Castle has one of the finest junior high schools in the state is seen in the fact that headquarters of the state department of public instruction, in writing to an outside school board group which had

Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American fliers missing since Nov. 9, was being concentrated today in the vicinity of the mouth of the Angueme river, on the Siberian coast, following receipt of reports from natives that the airmen had been located there.

While the Soviet authorities immediately ordered all searching parties to concentrate on this spot, which is about 160 miles east of North Cape, they were disinclined toward optimism, stating that definite proof Eielson and Borland were still alive had not been received.

Word of the fliers' discovery was received by Krylenko, Soviet wireless operator at Tinkignea, who declared he received the report from natives at Chukchei.

Adopt Ordinance
On Curb Light Sale

Council today met in formal session at the City building and adopted an ordinance which provides for the sale of the municipal curb light system to the Penn-Ohio Power Company for $25,000. The ordinance will become effective within 10 days.

Solicitor Robert White informed council that the contract between the city and the Penn-Ohio is ready for signature, as the contract was ordered executed several days ago, but the signatures were held up pending the passage of the ordinance which disposes of the curb light system.

The sale of the system after the ordinance is approved must be presented to the public service commission.

Wage Rigid Fight

New "Parrot Fever"

One More Victim Dies In New

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—With the death of another victim of pustulosis or "parrot fever," health authorities today made plans for a rigid inspection of a cargo of bats expected to arrive here January 26 from Cristobal.

Dr. Shirley Wynne, health commissioner, appealed to Washington for aid in seeing that any parrots on the boat were examined and declared free of disease before their owners were permitted to land them.

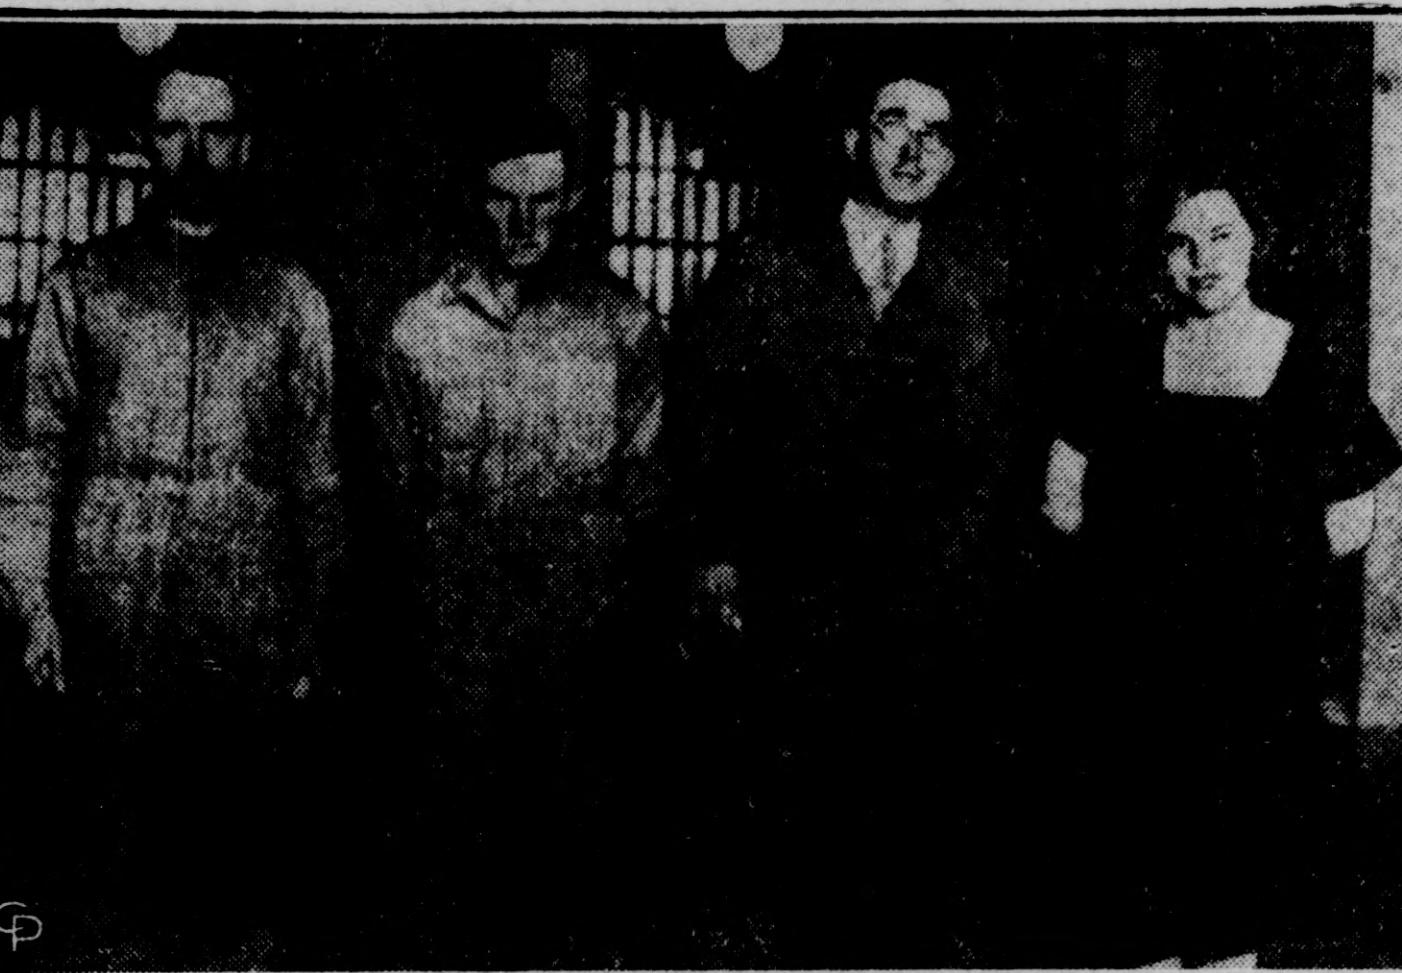

A parrot romance has led to what is believed to be two new cases of the fever at Hastings-on-Hudson, authorities reported today.

Mrs. J. Ruddel, who was given a parrot for Christmas, was afraid her pet was lonely so she took it across the street to a neighbor, Mrs. William McCartin, who also owned a bird. The parrots became friendly.

The Ruddel parrot died. Then Mrs. Ruddel and Mr. McCartin became ill. At first it was thought they had pneumonia but it was believed today they contracted the parrot disease. Blood cultures in these cases as well as two others at Dobbs Ferry have been forwarded to Albany for analysis.

First steps in the nearing legal battle to bring Irene Schroeder from her Arizona Waterloo to what may prove to be her Pennsylvania home were taken today when Governor John S. Fisher signed requisition papers asking Governor John C. Phillips to relinquish prior claim to the blonde gunwoman so that she may be returned to face a Pennsylvania court of justice for the killing of Corporal Brady Paul of the State Highway Patrol.

The requests for extradition were brought here by M. Martin Lee, Lawrence County Detective, and were signed by an alias.

Cleveland police and bank employees are expected here today to identify the suspect, who answers the description sent out in police circulars according to local officers, who claim that the man has been in Erie for several weeks.

The man held gave his name as John Parks, 28, and carried a letter addressed to J. Pajak, according to police who believe "Parks" to be an alias.

WORK FEVERISHLY

More Than 200,000 Acres Of Valuable Farm Land Is Reported Inundated

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 17.—

Sweeping southward to the accompaniment of freezing temperatures, swirling torrents of flood waters from the Mississippi tributaries claimed a vast new territory today.

A major break in the Big Lake, Ark., levee, flooded more than 200,000 acres of rich farm land. The break, small at first, soon widened to a 350-foot gap, and workmen abandoned an attempt to save the dyke.

The break was not unexpected. The lake, located in Mississippi county, Ark., had been a critical point for days, and after the big break, the pressure in the lake diminished considerably, decreasing the danger of more serious collapses.

Engineers said more than 20,000 cubic feet of water swept through the crevace each second.

Concern was centered today on the White river between Georgetown and Deaville Bluff, Ark., where a number of breaks were believed to be imminent. Crews which have been working around the lock to reinforce the White river levees were augmented today by hundreds of laborers.

Crews started an attempt to raise the Jackson Bayou levee on the White river two more feet, as the structure can stand only 30 feet of water, engineers said. Thirty two feet of water was forecast.

Life imprisonment in Arizona or the very probable possibility of the electric chair in Pennsylvania? This is the question that Pennsylvania authorities believe is engaging the admittedly subtle brain of the baby-faced blonde.

SYMPATHY LACKING.

Public sentiment in this state was whipped to a white heat by the ruthless murder of Corporal Paul. Instead of simmering down to a lackluster interest, as usually happens when a crime is committed and day after day goes by with no new developments, the clamor for the apprehension of the alleged murderer doubled and redoubled until word of

Good Music Is Feature Here At Convention

School Directors Convention Enlivened By Selections From Orchestra

PRACTICAL TALKS ARE GIVEN DIRECTORS

Lawrence county school directors convention was enlivened today by instrumental music by orchestras from the consolidated schools of Shenango township, Plain Grove and Slippery Rock. The youthful musicians played a number of selections which were loudly applauded.

After devotional exercises this morning by Rev. Claude Downs, Dr. Lee L. Driver of the State Department of Education delivered a practical talk on Rural School Administration. Dr. Driver dwelt at some length on the duties of school directors, showing how the success or failure of schools, was largely in their hands.

He urged discrimination in the selection of teachers, for it is upon the teacher that the success of the school is largely dependant. Directors, he said, should render all the co-operation possible. He urged that directors make it their business to visit the school regularly, in order that they might know from personal knowledge, just how the work was being carried on.

"The Teacher and The Director" was the subject of an address by Superintendent Bentz of Cambria county. Supt. Bentz has had a large experience in country school work, and his talk had to do with the real practical problems which confront teachers and directors in rural and consolidated schools.

"The High Cost of Ignorance" was discussed by Dr. L. H. Beehler. In his address he pointed out the many advantages that the educated person has over the uneducated.

Superintendent M. S. Bentz of Cambria county, concluded the program with an address on the "Director As An Administrative Factor."

There are twenty-five school boards in Lawrence county, each board being composed of five members. Some of the boards have secretaries and treasurers, who are not members of the board.

Practically all of the directors of the county were present at the convention. This is the 27th annual convention of district in Lawrence county.

The city junior high school basketball championship is at stake this afternoon. At the George Washington junior high school gym Ben Franklin and the Washington basketeers will struggle for the title. The game is looked upon as one of the most important tussles of the season, as far as city school basketball is concerned. Play starts at 4 o'clock.

The Lawrence county department of the poor, while functioning as usual, is not being called upon for as much assistance as it was just prior to Christmas, the director reports. It was stated at headquarters that conditions this year are probably no worse and perhaps not as bad as last winter. The cold spells that eat up the coal have not been so extreme nor as frequent as last year.

Audience Enjoys Sermon.

A thrilling message was presented Thursday evening in the Union Baptist church by Rev. William Hodge when he spoke on "It's None of Your Business." The services have steadily increased in interest and attendance each night and the closing service this evening is supposed to reach the climax.

Prior to the sermon this evening Rev. Hodge will present "Ten General Do Nots," the sermon theme will be "The Finality of Religion."

If you never saw ministers engaged in athletics you missed something by not seeing the New Castle-Butler volleyball at noon today. Competition was keen but the preachers displayed a fine spirit of sportsmanship through it all.

Lawrence county Boy Scouts work is operating temporarily without a chief, J. Lee Calahan having left to assume his new position on Tuesday night. There was a large attendance.

Contests in observation and "cat skating" were held and James Hannon's team was the victor in both contests. Following this a basketball game was played and again Hannon's team led by a score of 12 to 4.

The troop was then dismissed by the scoutmaster.

INSURGENTS PLAN OF SUGAR BOUNTY MAY BE DEFEATED

insurgent camp and it appeared doomed to rejection. It was widely opposed on economic grounds, declaring it contrary to Democratic principles. The insurgents however supported it on the contention it would save American sugar farmers from extinction and give them adequate relief against cheap competition.

The bounty plan, already proposed by Senator Howell (R) of Nebraska, would pay 44-100ths of a cent to American sugar producers on each pound of sugar produced in continental United States. The treasury would be authorized to pay it direct to growers. Howell estimated it would cost the government but $10,000,000 a year.

Supported by Borah

The plan had the support of Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, who has led the fight against Republican industrial rates throughout the tariff war. He said: "So far as I have been able to learn, the bounty is the only means of really aiding American producers so long as the Philippine and Hawaiian imports come in free."

On the other side, Senator Watson (R) of Indiana, administration leader, announced he would oppose it. Watson said the plan was paternalistic and that the American people had always opposed "bounties." Once the bounty is disposed of, administration leaders were hopeful of speeding up action on the tariff. Only a few minor committee amendments remain before the senate plunges into the consideration of individual amendments. Hundreds of changes have been proposed by individual senators and several weeks may be required to dispose of all of them.

Another Test Vote

A few outstanding rate battles will mark the close on the tariff war. The western sugar senators undoubtedly will seek another test vote on sugar duties, even though the increase was rejected 48 to 38. They will remain hopeful of changing the verdict with another vote. Then there will be final tests on the provision, removing all censorship from imported literature, and on other rates written into the bill in the senate last year.

With the progress made since the Christmas recess, there were indications the bill would be passed within three weeks. Administration leaders meanwhile fixed February 15 as their goal for its passage.

LINGERING WITH AN EINSTEIN PRINCIPLE.

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

Endless discussions have been carried on by the friends of science over the Einstein principle that the curved path of a planet around the sun and the straight—linear—path of some other body in empty space remote from the stars are both perfectly natural, requiring no special explanation because they are not influenced by outside forces. Einstein illustrates it thus: When a stone is suspended at the end of a string or whirled around the hand the "gravitational force" apparent in the former instance and the "centrifugal force" in the latter, both develop from the fact that the stone is prohibited from pursuing its natural path.

W. C. T. U. LUNCHEON
CELEBRATES VICTORY

About 200 members of the Lawrence county W. C. T. U. and special guests celebrated the tenth anniversary of the 18th amendment to the constitution in a fitting manner Thursday, when at noon the bells of the city and county rang for ten minutes and at 1 o'clock they gathered in the Central Presbyterian church for luncheon and to hear several speakers.

The meeting was presided over by Miss Margaret Walker, president of the Lawrence County W. C. T. U., who introduced the different persons seated at the speakers table. Representatives of different organizations of the city were represented and brought their greetings to the union.

Greetings for the occasion were sent by Mrs. E. J. Pattison, a past president of the organization, who is now in her 92nd year. She wrote a most charming letter and stated that on account of her advanced years she was unable to be present, but her heart and best wishes were there.

Robert White, city solicitor, gave an address citing the condition of New Castle before prohibition and at the present day, stating that in spite of the propaganda distributed by the wets, the country is in much better condition than it was prior to ten years ago. His address was enthusiastically received by the audience.

IF WE ARE CRAZY STOP US!

WHAT a self-centered creature man is! Here he has only received his income-tax blanks and just begun to worry about the job of making it out and he is already feeling awfully sorry for himself. There are millions of men and women who make but one return and not one has a thought of the taxgatherers or sheds a tear over his unhappy lot.

Picture a year-around existence, except for half holidays on Saturdays and whole holidays on Sundays and the birthday anniversaries of great Republicans, spent in the intimate company of thousands and thousands of Form 1040-A and 1040.

Think of the labor and tedium of looking up John Smith's salary and checking it against the statement of his employer, and the monotonous business of investigating whether he has reported the interest on the deposited balance from last year's Christmas saving fund.

Think of the poor tired eyes and fatigued minds trying to accurately check to see that Item 4 represents the sums of Item 1 to 3 and that Item 8 represents the total of Item 5 to 7 deducted from Item 4, and that Item 9 is Item 4 minus Item 8, and that Item 12 is Item 9 minus Items 10 and 1, and that Item 13 is  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of Item 12, which is to say Item 8, minus Items 10, plus 11.

But why continue into contributions non-taxable obligations and dividends from domestic corporations? The fellow with the real kick is the internal revenue collector. To relieve him, poor fellow, there must be many who would make no protest were the government to exempt him from the income tax. After all, the small amount the average person pays seems hardly to warrant the trouble entailed in collecting it.

HIGH PROMISE

In all societies man finds more upon abstractions than he does upon facts. He is doubtless the most content who finds his kingdom in his mind. Such was the teaching of the days when the right to the pursuit of happiness was written into the Declaration of Independence, and the doctrine has not yet gone out of vogue. Yet the tangible and negotiable are what appeal to most people in this age of utilitarian comforts. Some, however, can probably blend the theoretical and practical factors in the securing of happiness.

The right to happiness can well be viewed through the bestowments which have come through an era of prosperity and progress. The ratio of happiness may not be higher than when the dictum of the Declaration of Independence was written, but it is certainly no lower.

Despite spectacular crime and pillage, there never was a day of worthier enterprise with higher awards than exists today in the United States for young men who are willing to do one thing—buckle their best intelligence to honest work.

The year 1930 will furnish as much human happiness as any year before it and it may be that it will witness a bumper crop. Part of each individual's share of that happiness should be found in honest, productive effort. A new year is an opportunity for new achievements.

ARE MOST OF US "FINANCIALLY INCOMPETENT"?

Professor Huebner of the University of Pennsylvania is quoted as telling the delegates to the underwriters' convention in Toronto that 98 people out of every 100 are "financially incompetent." He declared that man had two great economic disabilities: "One is his inability to continue his life; the other, his inability to continue his substance."

In demonstrating this he insisted that only one man out of ten at the age of sixty-five has enough money to assure him an income of even fifty dollars a month. We presume there are statistics to prove this contention, but we may gain comfort from the fact that it is possible to get statistics to prove anything we want to have proved.

ADDITIONAL HURRICANE RELIEF FOR PORTO RICO

Sixteen months after the disastrous hurricane of September 13, 1928, President Hoover transmits to congress with approval the report of the Porto Rico Relief Commission that an additional $3,000,000 is needed for its work.

It was difficult at the time to visualize the utter devastation which had wiped out the livelihood of hundreds of thousands of persons on the island. Years must elapse before many of the plantations, particularly those for the production of coffee, can be returned to their former state. This phase of reconstruction was but partially covered by the fund of $6,000,000 for loans to the planters to set them on their feet once more. That sum is shown now to cover the rehabilitation of about 135,000 of the 190,000 acres of coffee land which were ruined. An additional $1,000,000 is needed to complete the allotment and $2,000,000 more for the construction of roads and school houses, which will be a twofold blessing in providing employment and lasting service to the people.

It is to be hoped that congress will act promptly as the president requests upon this relief measure. The distress on the island is very great and private charity is being appealed to very widely by Governor Roosevelt, who is devoting his energies and his ability for organization to the work of salvage.

TO BE CONSCIOUS OF

Ignorance is the beginning of wisdom.
Weakness is the opportunity to develop strength.
Temptation is to win half a victory.

Folly is the beginning of better sense.
Need is to have some responsibility for it.

One mistake is to make the next more unnecessary.
God is the highest achievement of life.

A naturalist informs us that the bear family always increases while the big bears are holed up for the winter. This will be sad news for Wall street.

Women may smoke, invade barber shops, or wear trousers and get away with it, but the female of the deer will be the result in the end and we will be the mess in the senate and congress in Washington.

This, however, is no "flat contradiction" of anything that Dr. Olga Stastny may say. She is an admirable woman, 6 feet tall, "remarkable in strength and intelligence and did wonders just after the war taking care of 10,000 Armenian refugees."

She probably never put her heels on a desk in her life. She is too busy.

Referring to increase of drunkenness among young people, it was mentioned here that head masters of big preparatory schools, Groton, St. Marks, Lawrenceville, Choate and many others, could give information as to the youthful drinking.

In those preparatory schools well managed, in the hands of competent masters, there is, needless to say, no drinking by the boys. It would not be tolerated for a moment. Any boy found with liquor in his possession would be instantly dismissed. And the honor system among boys prevents drinking or any dealing with bootleggers, regardless of regulations.

But when those boys go home for vacation, they see what happens in the homes and at young people's parties. They know what the older brothers and sisters do. And they tell the headmasters.

Germany puts the new powerful cruiser Koeln in commission, a cruiser more powerful than any of those we are planning to build.

The Koeln, 6,000 tons, carries among other weapons, nine six-inch guns, and torpedo tubes. Electric welding takes the place of riveting, which will interest American steel engineers. Welding reduces weight.

The six-inch guns fire in groups of three, six to eight salvos a minute, effective at 20,000 yards. Germany does not intend to stay down.

Fear Of Mysterious Breeds Superstition

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 17.—"Fear of the mysterious is the mother of superstition, and the way to overcome fear is exactly as the shepherds overcame it by scientific explanation," declared President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University at an all-university gathering.

"Fear is a treacherous emotion," President Marsh said "easily aroused, and tremendous in its grip. It is the strongest enemy of freedom, and the fears of men are transformed into social bonds that trammel and restrict what would otherwise be joyous and free. It may be possible by fear to push a docile soul into the clutches of an awe-inspiring authority, but it is done at the expense of wholesome personality."

"Fear has an evil effect on body and mind; the physical effect of which is much the same as a toxic dose of atropin, only that fear is more poisonous. It intoxicates the mind and injures the body functions."

Will Ask Funds To Extend State Ticker System

Additional Transmitting Station And More Receiving Stations
Wanted

ASK LEGISLATURE TO GIVE $400,000

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—Funds to extend the recently inaugurated State Police telephone-telegraph ticker system will be asked of the next legislature. An appropriation of at least $400,000 probably will be requested by officials.

At least one additional transmitting station is needed to round out the service officials say. There are now four stations equipped to send messages. The eastern section of the State has transmitting apparatus located in Philadelphia and at the State Police barracks in Wyoming. Harrisburg is the sending station for the central zone and Pittsburgh in the west.

The western zone should be divided in order to make the system more effective officials say. Under the present arrangement all local police departments must communicate with Pittsburgh before any message can be sent over the system. If sufficient money is available for the 1931-33 biennium another zone will be established with Erie as the possible sending station.

Additional receiving machines also are needed to augment those already in service. In the suburban district to Philadelphia the townships maintain effective police forces and these headquarters should be equipped with the receiving sets. There are a number of other points that the department desires to see placed on the system.

The last legislature was asked to appropriate $350,000 to inaugurate the service. Governor Fisher approved a grant of $260,000 which is sufficient to run the system for the remainder of the biennium. There are ninety-three cities and towns equipped with receiving sets. While in operation less than a month there have been several arrests made which were credited to this system. In addition to serving as a clearing house for police data aeronautical information is sent over the system four times a day for the benefit of airport operators and also pilots.

Stapleton Refuses To Sell Dad's Whip

HOWELL, Michigan, Jan. 17.—There are a few things in the world money can't buy, antiques included—Henry Ford doesn't own them.

Among them are to be listed the long bull whip, handmade copper curry comb and other stage driving equipment used by "Old Jack" Stapleton when he piloted a coach and four horses between Howell and Detroit in the days before the railroads.

Today the stage driver's son, Charles Stapleton, 73, former lumberjack and railroad man, owns the antiques. He says he means to continue his ownership in spite of many attempts Ford and his associates have made to obtain possession of them.

"Money can't buy them," says Stapleton. "I promised Dad I'd keep them."

Find Disease Germ At Home In Clouds

Countless Numbers Are Suspended In Atmosphere Over Cities

AKRON, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Justification of an old theory, founded mostly upon superstition, that death may literally "rain from the skies," has resulted from a survey just completed in the Los Angeles area by Dr. Charles Barton, according to a report released here by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., through whom the survey was conducted.

Dr. Barton, prominent in Pacific coast medical circles, made his observations from the airship Volunteer over congested population centers progressively up to as high as 13,000 feet, testing and analyzing theories regarding the upper strata of air.

High above the earth, according to Dr. Barton's survey, there exists disease germs in countless numbers. When Pasteur discovered the germ as the cause of disease, the ramifications of this revelation confined the medical profession to the earth's surface.

With the advent of aviation, however, and resulting scientific observations such as that conducted by Dr. Barton, it has been found that the natural habitat of disease germs is the clouds, where they are immune from the deadly rays of the sun.

Calls Boy Thief, Teacher Is Sued

blacklisting him before his classmates, he charged, as a thief.

This is what Joseph's petition cites as the talking in class the teacher should not have done:

"Joseph is a thief. I do not want any of your children to associate with him and if you do you will be punished."

The boy told his father about it and he told two lawyers. After a few conferences the suit was filed. The bill of particulars stated Joseph was not and had never been guilty of any act of dishonesty and that the alleged slanderous remark by his teacher caused him to suffer great humiliation; and injured his good name, fame and reputation.

Joseph said the teacher took two marbles from a pupil and placed them on her desk. Later a boy handed Joseph the marbles. Miss Pruitt saw them in his possession and asked where he got them. Before he answered, he stated, she made the reported accusation.

$15,000,000 FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN NEW HAVEN

(International News Service) BOSTON, Jan. 17.—The New York New Haven and Hartford railroad has begun the year 1930 with $15,000,000 available for improvements. The New Haven road, according to President J. J. Peiley, plans to spend on improvements to equipment and permanent facilities in 1930 about $11,500,000 and for new equipment about $3,500,000, a total of $15,000,000.

This expenditure was said to be up to the totals of recent years because the New Haven's rehabilitation program, carried out through large expenditures during the past 12 years, has put the property in such condition that smaller expenditures for improvements are adequate.

The chief expenditures in the $15,000,000 budget are as follows: $3,000,000 for ten electric passenger locomotives and thirty-three multiple unit cars.

$2,300,000 for rebuilding and improving freight and passenger cars.

$1,000,000 for improving team and electric locomotives.

$975,000 for improved and additional shop, power plant and steamboat facilities.

$2,900,000 for improved roadway, including additional 130 pound rail and stone ballast, with the accompanying track fittings.

$1,650,000 for the improved main line facilities.

The remainder covers numerous miscellaneous improvements.

Commander Byrd Lights Memorial To Ben Franklin

Commander Byrd Via Radio Impulse From Polar Regions Illuminates Memorial

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Planned 8000 miles through the ether, a radio impulse from Commander Richard E. Byrd, at his South Polar camp, illuminated the memorial to Benjamin Franklin erected here last night by the Poor Richard Club.

The tiny flash was accompanied by a message of good will to the assembled notables and members of the club present awaiting the toll of midnight to pay homage to the noted diplomat inventor and statesman on the anniversary of his birthday.

Makes Report Of Furnace Fund

Brython Gives News Of Interest To Welsh Folks Of This County

(By W. A. JOHNS) (Brython)

Daniel Williams, of Sheridan avenue, the treasurer of the finance fund of the Emmanuel Baptist church, read the report and the names of the donors to this fund last Sunday evening. Through the help of these kind people, he was able to meet all expenses in connection with the buying of the furnaces. After hearing such a favorable report, the church passed a resolution thanking all people for their generosity in helping out, and instructing the clerk of the church, John Evans, to send a personal letter to each one of these persons.

Rev. Emrys Thomas had the pleasure of filling the pulpit of the Congregational church for two Sundays at the time he visited New Castle, a week or two ago. According to the report, he pleased the people of the church very much in his preaching. This is the church where Rev. Samuel Whiting was the pastor before he came to be pastor of the First Congregational church of New Castle. The last pastor of the church was Rev. John Roberts who left a few months ago to become the pastor of the Congregational church of Scranton, Pa.

Daniel Haddock, who used to be the general manager of the Farrell Tin Plate Works, has been promoted to the head office of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, where he is holding a responsible position. He is well known in this city. His brother, William Haddock, used to be the sheriff at Pittsburgh.

William Phillips, 3 East Reynolds street, with his family, celebrated his 70th birthday anniversary last Tuesday, January 14. Most of the children and grandchildren were present and they had a very nice time, the honor guest being the recipient of many gifts. The Brython remembered him with a poem. A birthday dinner was prepared at six o'clock in the evening, by his better half, Mrs. Phillips. Assisting her was her daughter, Mrs. Bluedore, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Phillips.

The Rev. Reese T. Williams, new pastor of the First Congregational church, is coming to like New Castle more and more each week. He is showing great activity toward the work of the church, by having everything improved inside and outside of the church. The latest improvement that he has done, was to have the sign fixed on the lawn of the church, with electric lights, so as to advertise the service on Sunday and week days.

We are pleased to say that Miss Muriel Edmunds, daughter of Mrs. May Edmunds of South Mercer street, has recovered from her late illness, and the operation at the New Castle hospital. She is able to return to her office duties once more.

A letter has been received this week from the old friend Thomas Edwards, Pico, California, telling his friends at New Castle that he and his family are enjoying life at its best, and that David W. Williams, Riverside, California, is getting better again after a few weeks of illness. They are having a little winter weather in California at the present time.

Thayer To Take Witness Stand

Will Testify In Own Behalf At Bribery Charge Trial In Canton, Ohio

(International News Service) CANTON, O., Jan. 17.—Albert L. Thayer, New Castle, Pa., architect, who is on trial here charged with having solicited a $7,500 bribe in connection with the construction of the new million-dollar Molly Stark Tubercolosis Sanitarium, was expected to take the stand in his own defense today.

Present indications are that the case will not go to the jury of six men and six women, before whom it is being tried, until Monday or Tuesday of next week.

George F. S. Melbourne, wealthy general contractor for the hospital, from whom Thayer is alleged to have solicited the bribe in connection with "juggling" linoleum specifications in the contract, testified yesterday. Thayer demanded $7,500 from him and actually received $6,500 cash in four installments, Melbourne declared.

The contractor said he refused to pay the balance because the county building commission still owed the Melbourne Construction company for some work.

Linoleum specifications in the contract for the hospital were changed, Melbourne declared, in the Melbourne company office at the instruction of Melbourne and Thayer.

Flavor Oyster

PARIS, Jan. 17.—Take your iodine oysters recommended Dr. Rene Loubat of Bordeaux in a recent report to the Academy of Medicine in which he explained how he has prepared an oyster for the man who should have iodine in his system but does not take it.

First he bathes the oyster in the brown substance thoroughly washes it and leaves it in its own little pool of iodine instead of sea water. In a short time it is ready for the market. He calls his discovery gastratherapeutique or if one believes in the medicine is more important than the food therapeuto-gastronomie. The French doctor has a farm in Normandy where he is carrying on his experiments in an old-fashioned kitchen.

He believes that in the future all medicine will be taken in foods and thus man will receive nourishment and recuperation at one and the same time. Castor oil for salads, epsom salts on the roasts, iron in the morning egg and wormwood in the pudding besides many other tasty dishes are prophesied by the French savant.

"This is a tremendous thing" declared Dr. Loubat to a reporter of the "Paris Soir." "Iodined oysters are precursors of a new epoch!"

The reporter said he thought as much but wondered just how the pearl would feel and act about it.

When they tear down the Saint-Lazare prison, Nicholas Flamel aged 65 will be out of a job and Paris will have lost the last member of a most famous corporation—the public letter-writer.

Flamel has his desk and inkpot just outside the prison walls and depends on departing inmates for business. Even in this age of typewriters he says the released prisoners are too poor, too thrifty or too ignorant to seek a public stenographer.

It is rumored that the prison will soon be torn down but Flamel sagely waits for his head.

"That rumor has been going around for 50 years. Guess I'll round my life here."

The return to the age of armour is marked by one of the smartest novelties of the season the metal "love-bag" created without doubt because of the growing number of "crimes passionnelles." Made of solid, but beautiful substance it is designed to protect fair ladies just as the knights of old found protection in their breast plates.

And just as German students are proud to show their faces scared by duels, the chic Parisienne now shows her metal sack like a precious love trophy. One dent may mean Jean's great passion, a hole, Paul's ardour and two or three of them the great desires of Fernand.

The youngest musical virtuoso in the world is reported to be Ginette Neveu aged 10 and America may see her.

Little Mlle. Neveu became famous overnight after she won the first prize for violin at the Paris Conservatory after competing against a whom were twice her age.

Geysers Are Used For Heating Of Iceland Schools

Heat Which Has Been Allowed
To Go To Waste Heretofore,
Now Being Used

REYKJAVIK, Jan. 17.—Iceland is putting its geysers to work. A common phenomenon here, despite the incongruity of their appearance in a land whose very name breathes of the cold, the many geysers and hot springs of the country have not been utilized to the full extent of their possibilities. Now their heat is being harnessed.

The largest and most famous geyser in the country bears simply the name Geyser. Occasionally this giant throws a stream of boiling water to a height of 35 to 50 feet. Fifty years ago these outbursts occurred once or twice daily. Now they are rare. But there are still plenty of natural hot springs to offer considerable opportunities for their development.

Several farms are heated almost entirely from the hot water, and a schoolhouse is heated by the same method. Another is not only heated by natural hot springs, but has a bathing pool filled from the same source. The water also has curative properties, and the children in this school are consequently among the healthiest in a population noted for its health.

A third school to be heated on the hot water plan is now to be built at Reykholt, one of the historic spots of Iceland, located in the southwest part of the island. This place is mentioned in saga. The famous historian and poet, Snorre Sturlason, lived and was killed there in 1241. He was born in 1178 and is considered the first of ancient historians of Iceland.

Nation's Capital A Tinder Box

Washington Filled With Temporary Combustible Structures And Fire Danger Is Ever Prevalent; New Buildings To Relieve Danger

Temporary government buildings in Washington, built during the war. Inset, air view of the same.

By CHARLES P. STEWART.
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Although a fire in the Capitol building only ten days after flames had left little more than the walls standing of the White House's left wing did wring from Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan the ejaculation: "There must be more than coincidence in this," nevertheless investigation soon left little doubt that coincidence was about all the sequence amounted to.

Coincidence mixed with a modicum of carelessness that is to say.

The truth is the government ought to be mighty thankful it has not had a sure-enough fire in the last few years.

Ever since the World war when the departments overflowed all their old quarters important subdivisions of them have been housed in the most amazing collection of inflammable rattletraps that veritable mountains of almost invaluable records were stored in in any capital in the world.

These shacks were slapped up pell-mell, acres of them in extent out of almost nothing but lath and plaster with the country already in the world conflict and literally anything passed muster.

Except that none of them exceeds three stories in height and probably could be jumped from through their windows without a very heavy casualty list, the danger to their occupants lives as well as to property would be frightful. Even as it is an alarm would have to be instant for they would burn like card structures.

if they got a good start as the west wing of the White House did.

The Capitol be it understood is substantial in its 18th and 19th century way.

It is difficult to imagine a fire that could gain such headway in it unless it were deliberately set and encouraged as by the British in 1814 to damage it seriously—structurally.

A lot of its contents, however, would burn like a pine knot.

It is somewhat disquieting to realize that such a fire actually can smoulder in it as it did recently un-discovered until flames and smoke burst right out through the roof and dome for chance passersby to see and give the alarm.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS.
Editor The Farm Journal.
Written for Central Press.

About this time of year the professional and amateur statisticians get out their adding machines and start to grind out figures on the farming business.

They will show what the 1929 production of farms was in dollars and what the cash sales were. What the average farmer should have gotten for his time as a worker and for his brains and attention as a manager and many of them will wind up telling the farmer how much more money he ought to have made and what a general sucker he is to be in the business at all.

Of course the government's buildings (not counting the ones now under construction which are regular modern steel and concrete affairs) are middling fire resistant.

The interior and labor departments and the main offices of the commerce department also are all right.

The homes of the state, war and navy departments and the older agriculture department buildings would burn—not in the wink of an eye but

There would be no complaint about this if it were a true picture of farm incomes. But as a matter of fact it is a very incomplete picture and consequently misleading.

It is wrong, in the first place, to speak of the "average farmer." There is no such thing. You cannot average six and a quarter million farmers. You cannot average a colored man with his mule in Mississippi with Thomas D. Campbell in Montana with 90,000 acres of wheat, with a poultryman in New Jersey with 5,000 White Leghorns in a four-story laying-house, and get any result that means anything.

Suppose five farmers have incomes of $8,000 each and five other farmers incomes of $800 each. You can say that in this case the average income is $4,400, but which one of these ten men is the "average farmer?"

However I started to speak of something even more important and that is that the actual income of farmers is something that is not known to anybody.

Nobody knows, for example what value should be placed on the free house rent that the farm family receives.

Nobody knows just what food and fuel the farm family obtains from its own farm, nor what valuation ought to be placed on it. I am personally convinced that the item of food from the farm—milk, eggs, poultry, meats, vegetables, fruits, etc.—is grossly undervalued in most studies of this kind.

Most important of all, nobody knows how much and how many ways the farm family income is increased by outside work or the carrying on of some other business on the side."

We can be sure only of one thing, it seems to me and that is that the real farm income, the real reward for labor and management is much higher than the statisticians are able to figure it.

Certainly there is no movement of energetic and progressive farmers off the productive farms of the country.

There is a good profit in most branches of the business when carried on by a man who knows what he is about. He does not remain on the farm because he is a sucker but because he believes in country life for his family and earns an income that is a good deal higher than the statisticians would have us believe.

It is obvious to the thoughtful observer that lines are being laid for a legal attack of the Agricultural Marketing act of 1929.

Just how this will be done and when, and who will make the assault, I do not know. There is no way of knowing. But it may come sooner than we think, and may even be a public knowledge by the time this sentence gets into print.

The Marketing act is too revolutionary, its principles are too dangerous to established lines of trade, to pass without challenge.

Just as the Pure Food and Drug act was fought in the courts, just as the Stockyards and Packer Control act, the Co-operative Organization act, all had to be fought up to the supreme court for decision, so the federal farm board will shortly find its authority and powers questioned and its activities tied up for an indefinite period.

Some preliminary mutterings of the storm were heard a few weeks ago in the protest of grain trade interests in the northwest against the formation of the new co-operative grain agency under the advice and with the help of the farm board.

Simultaneously, the United States Chamber of Commerce, through its president, reminded the farm board that its approval of co-operative farm selling should not be interpreted to mean that co-operative organizations should interfere with established channels of trade.

To this Chairman Legge of the farm board replied that this was asking the board to "hang its clothes on a hickory limb, but not go near the water." It was not to be expected he said, that a far-reaching change in selling methods of grain, cotton, livestock or wool would not force some important adjustments in the present distributing system for these products. But he denied that there need be any damage to anybody except the cut-and-out speculators, whose activities he said were of no real value to producer, consumer or anyone else.

But whatever view the supreme court takes, the definite closing of the subject is a necessary step, and the sooner it is taken the better.

"Church pews never skid into a ditch," observes the Cincinnati Enquirer. Perhaps not, but they have other similarities, not the least important of which is that they hold a lot of back-seat drivers who think they know more about preaching than the pastor does.

This is a good thing. If the very broad powers given by congress to the farm board are beyond the limits of their constitutional power, the sooner we know it the better. It is bound to prove a hopeless, stern unlikely, I think, that the supreme court does.

Potato Crop In Northeast Less Than Last Year

Certified Seed Crop Suffers Because Of Unfavorable Conditions This Summer

ONLY NEW YORK AND NOVA SCOTIA GAIN

(International News Service) BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Certified seed potato crop in the Northeast was 30 per cent smaller this year than in 1928, according to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture and made public by the New England Crop Reporting Service.

Officials of the northeastern states and provinces of Canada reported that 33,754 acres of seed potatoes passed final field inspection in the fall season of 1929 as compared with 45,167 acres passing final inspection last year. All states and provinces except New York and Nova Scotia showed decreases in acreage passing final inspection.

Production in 1929 indicated at 8,941,275 bushels compared with 12,568,605 bushels harvested in 1928. The variety totals showed a 44 per cent decrease in the production of Cobblers, 11 per cent decrease in Green Mountains, 35 per cent decrease in Spaulding Rose, but a 29 per cent increase in all others.

Good Growing Season

Maine had a good growing season and yields averaged much higher than in recent years. There was practically no late blight, but some field frost. Quality of tubers averaged better than any since 1924.

Weather conditions during the growing season were variable. Vermont, central and northern sections had plenty of rain, although there were few small areas which had a deficiency of precipitation. There was practically no blight, but field frost did some damage. Quality of matured potatoes were good. The Crop Reporting service declared.

In New York wet weather delayed plantings, but the western sections were dry throughout the summer. Rainfall in September helped potatoes in the Lake Ontario counties, but frost prevented much benefit occurring in the southern sections. The yield turned out better than expected, but the size of the tubers was below average.

Dry In Early Season

During the early part of the growing season in New Brunswick it was very dry. Good growing conditions prevailed for the late crops. Early planted fields produced about the average yield while the later plantings showed better than average with good.

Nova Scotia reported that the first half of the growing season was dry and the early variety of potatoes showed little yields with 20 per cent or more as small stock. The latter varieties received copious rains which resulted in heavy crops, but which also produced rough tubers, oversizes and second growths. Late blight and rot were present.

Prince Edward Island, because of unusually dry conditions during the growing season, had a light crop of Cobblers with small tubers. Green Mountains and Spaulding Rose varieties benefited greatly by late rains. Some yields were reported running as high as 450 bushels per acre.

and could not be shaken but according to his eccentricities it was rather difficult to get him to talk.

E. H. Rea told of the family history.

Shot Father Years Ago

It was developed during the questioning that Sirus or Clark as he is known perhaps a score of years ago had shot his father.

Through mother love, Sirus Clark was "screened" according to his brother. He said Sirus was his mother's favorite but had not been good to her.

On the other hand he had been "switched" time and again he said and maintained his brother had often called him names such as "idiot."

He said this worried him some but that he never answered his brother back and that they had got along well.

It was later stated by City Detective Logan that when he was county detective he had been sent to the farm to arrest Sirus Clark Rea.

Logan said that "Clark" was in a barn.

He went to the barn and the man now dead is alleged to have asked when he demanded admittance:

"Who are you?"

Logan replied: "I am the county detective."

"To— with you, the county detective and everybody else. I'm not afraid of you."

This story had been told to neighbors who repeated it to authorities on the night of the murder.

a material witness and they swore out a warrant.

One of the developments yesterday was at the court house where he was taken to see his attorney, J. Elder Bryan. It was on matters affecting the estate of his brother. An administrator must be appointed.

According to Rea his brother owned P-O stock, Frederick Investment company stock and some other bonds. He also stated that his brother had been robbed last summer of $700, but it was developed the amount taken from a coat left in a cornfield was $400.

E. H. Rea told the officers his brother had been shot through the left temple but the bullet entered the right temple.

He claims this occurred when the noise at the window attracted his brother and he hurried a chair at the window which broke off part of a lounge which scattered the glass.

The panes in the east and west windows were broken. There was glass inside and outside the room.

Rea went outside, shouted "Murder" then notified neighbors. The telephone was used and farmers went to the home and the sheriff was called. During his narrative he told how his brother and he had been at home a week prior to the shooting and of someone calling to them: "Give us a quart of lamp oil."

Rea said his brother said: "We haven't got enough for the lamp," and of the man then saying: "Lend us your horse, our auto is stuck in the mud."

Clark refused and from behind locked doors cursed the man away.

This story had been told to neighbors who repeated it to authorities on the night of the murder.

Funeral services will be held for Clark Rea Saturday afternoon from the Kelley funeral rooms with burial in Graceland cemetery.

Plan To Restore Storehouse On E. & A. Division

Headquarters Moved To Cleveland Five Years Ago To Be Reopened Here

Storehouse headquarters for the local division of the Pennsylvania railroad will again be restored to the old Cherry street shops from their present location at Cleveland, company officials made known today. It was stated the move will be effected some time during January.

While one robber held a pistol to his forehead he told authorities he could see the other two go to the bed, lay between the ticks, get what money was there, probably $50, take three broken watches and open one drawer of the dresser.

While this was going on the robber who had, according to Rea, fired the shot which killed his brother, pointed a pistol to his forehead and demanded: "Your money. Give me the money—Your money. Give me the money!" Clark said he gave the man all he had—54 cents.

They were in the room only five minutes and left.

As the man gave his description of the murder it was apparent that his mind was not entirely clear. Sheriff Johnson and State Policemen Gondell and Shulick took the man in charge for questioning. He was removed from the room temporarily by the trio and quizzed in an easy going manner.

As to the exact date when the storehouse equipment will be moved it was stated local officials are without knowledge. However, they anticipate the change some time within the present month.

If America is as foolish and weak witness to the scene and knowing of his eccentricities the county authorities believed it best he be detained as and capture was flashed throughout the nation.

Sex sympathy accorded the average feminine law violator has been conspicuous in its absence since her apprehension. Pennsylvania authorities believe the woman is well aware that her sex may avail nothing when pitted against a jury in Lawrence county where the young officer was known and respected.

For that reason, they believe, Mrs. Schroeder is preparing to "bargain" desperately with Arizona officials—that she may promise to enter a plea of guilty to the kidnapping charge with the proviso that the extradition be denied, thereby saving the western state the expense of a trial and ensuring her a life term behind the bars of the Arizona penitentiary.

Better a lifetime in an Arizona prison than a first degree murder conviction with the resulting death penalty in Pennsylvania will be her decision, it is believed.

Whether such a plan to escape the electric chair would succeed remains to be seen. Pennsylvania wants this woman. The commonwealth signified its desire today, through the action of Governor Fisher in signing the requisition papers asking for her return.

Authorities here are confident that when the evidence against Mrs. Schroeder is laid before Governor Phillips, the Arizona executive will sign the extradition order. They are confident that Mrs. Schroeder is coming back to Lawrence county. Not willingly, perhaps, not in the same contemptuous mood in which she flashed through Lawrence county shooting and cursing, last month. But, they say—she is coming back.

Authorities here are confident that when the evidence against Mrs. Schroeder is laid before Governor Phillips, the Arizona executive will sign the extradition order. They are confident that Mrs. Schroeder is coming back to Lawrence county. Not willingly, perhaps, not in the same contemptuous mood in which she flashed through Lawrence county shooting and cursing, last month. But, they say—she is coming back.

Ready to Start For Prisoners Armed with the necessary requisition papers for the return of Irene Schroeder, W. Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford, County Detective Peck Lee is on a Pennsylvania train this afternoon headed for New Castle. Detective Lee will be in New Castle late tonight and it is probable that the officers chosen to bring back the three wanted for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul will be on the way out of New Castle sometime Saturday.

While no announcement has been made as to who will comprise the party it seems logical to assume that it will be County Detective Peck Lee, Sheriff Frank N. Johnston, Lieutenant J. Boettner of the State Police, Private Ernest Moore of the State Highway Patrol, Police Woman Mrs. Minnie McKibbin. There is a possibility that a man from Wheeling, W. Va., may be taken along to identify the man thought to be Tom Crawford. This has not as yet been settled.

Will Speed Action

Once started from New Castle the officers will make an effort to speed their actions. Phoenix, Arizona is approximately 2400 miles from New Castle and if the delegation left Saturday, they would arrive in Phoenix, Arizona sometime Tuesday. This would probably mean that the extradition papers could be served and the prisoners started back from Phoenix about Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning.

Word from Phoenix today is that Sheriff Charles Wright is ready to turn over the prisoners as soon as the papers are served. Irene Schroeder is quoted as saying that she will fight extradition. However it makes little difference what she thinks, once the papers are served properly and the Governor of Arizona agrees to the request of Governor Fisher.

An extradition or requisition is merely a request from one governor to another governor to deliver prisoners to agents of the state wanting them. In this case, Governor John S. Fisher asks Governor Phillips of Arizona if he will turn over Irene Schroeder, W. Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford to the agent of this state. County Detective Peck Lee for the purpose of bringing them back to New Castle for trial.

Recognized By Friends

To the identification by fingerprints a further identification of Irene Schroeder has been made by Mr. and Mrs. A. Gaywood of Wheeling, W. Va., who are in Phoenix at the present time. They went to the jail there and after seeing the woman Mrs. Gaywood is reported to have said: "Hello Irene, don't you know me?"

The prisoner stated sullenly at her visitors and refused to speak. "Don't you remember when we went to school together?" continued Mrs. Gaywood but the woman still refused to admit that she had ever seen her and turned her face to the wall.

Shortly after the capture, Deputy Sheriff Dobrinski of the Phoenix jail said that Irene Schroeder had admitted her identity. This she has repeated since.

Donnie Not Going

There is not a chance that little Donnie Schroeder, 4 1/2 year old son of Irene Schroeder will be taken to Phoenix, Arizona, to aid in the identification of his mother, according to District Attorney John S. Powers.

"Some of the outside newspapers are carrying a story that we may decide to take Donnie on the trip to Phoenix" said Mr. Powers. "It seems to me that the identification of Mrs. Schroeder and Glenn Dague have been established beyond the possibility of doubt. Finger prints don't lie, and these finger prints, sent from the State Police barracks in Harrisburg to Sheriff Charles Wright in Phoenix tally with the finger prints of Irene Schroeder and Dague. Hence it would be duplication to send Donnie out, and it would also add much expense to the trip for the youngster would much care on such a long jaunt."

"Will Not Go"

"You can say", continued Mr. Powers that we have no intention of sending the boy along with County Detective Lee and his party when they leave for Arizona. The party will be made up of Mr. Lee, Private Ernest Moore of the State Highway Patrol, a woman and perhaps one or two more officers. This was decided upon Thursday at the conference between the county commissioners, the county solicitor, the sheriff and myself, and announcement to that effect made by Solicitor John P. Lockhart."

Little Donnie Schroeder talked to his mother Thursday night, for the first time since she left him with her father on Wheeling Island, preparatory to her blazing trail of crime and misadventure across the country. Seated in the office of the probation officer, Jack M. Dunlap, Donnie talked across 2400 miles to Irene Schroeder, who was in the corridor of the Maricopa county jail in Phoenix, Arizona.

Talks To Mother.

"Hello, mother" said the little fellow who had been called out of a sound sleep to talk to his mother. "How are you, what are you doing?" Then a pause while the answer came floating back over the wire, and then, "show is Uncle Tom, I want to talk to him."

Another pause and then the question, "where are you coming to see me?"

Nearly Breaks Down.

According from Phoenix, Arizona, this morning, Mrs. Schroeder nearly broke down as she listened to the eager voice of her young son, but managed to hold up long enough to talk with him.

The capture and identification of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague have brought a little different reaction in Bedwood, W. Va., where the woman's father and other relatives live.

Her father, Joseph Crawford, a 65 year old fish peddler refuses to believe his daughter's guilt, and wants to hear her story.

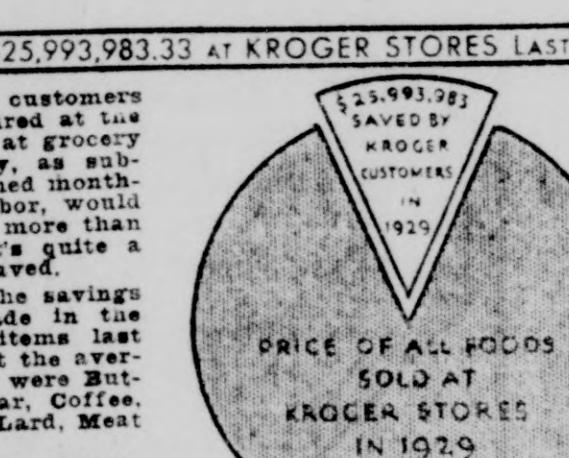

The old man will likely come to New Castle either when the woman is brought back or when the trial is over. "I have made arrangements with Chief of Police Francis Moran of Bellair, Ohio, to go to New Castle as soon as Irene is brought back" continued Mr. Crawford. "As for Glenn Dague, I don't know anything about him. I have seen him several times with Irene in our home. He always appeared to me to be a perfect gentleman."

"I want Donnie returned to me. I would like to take care of him and will take them to law to get him back if I have to work night and day for the rest of my life."

In Pittsburgh, California, not such a long distance from where Irene "shot it out" with a posse of deputies, Homer Schroeder, a mill worker here said, "I can't pass judgment on something I know nothing about. Irene and I were mated, we could not get along and did not understand each other. I will not condemn her until I know that she is actually guilty."

Irene's sister, Mrs. Ray Schroeder, blames drugs for her sister's downfall. "If she committed the murder and did the things it is claimed she did, I am sure that she used dope or something to drive her to it", was her defense to him.

blames drugs for her sister's downfall. "If she committed the murder and did the things it is claimed she did, I am sure that she used dope or something to drive her to it", was her defense to him.

Another brother, Joseph Crawford, who has a farm outside New Concord, Ohio, thinks there has been a mistake made in accusing Irene of the murder of Corporal Brady Paul.

"I will do everything possible to aid the state in solving the murder of the police officer" he said. "But I believe there may have been some mistake, Irene never handled a gun in her life."

Mrs. Theresa Dague, deserted wife of Glenn Dague, is not interested in Dague's welfare. She is working hard as a school teacher to keep her two children properly, and refuses to comment upon the case. According to reports, Mrs. Dague is almost without funds and is living in a small home on a farm in Marshall county, W. Va., teaching a small country school as a livelihood.

Mrs. W. Curtiss Dague, sister-in-law of W. Glenn Dague, did not know what would be done in the way of arranging for a defense of her brother-in-law and said that the affair had so upset them all that they had made no plans.

CARS AND PEDESTRIANS SKID GIDDILY ON ICY PAVEMENT

The theme song of this little article should be, "I've Got a Feeling I'm Falling". Before Thursday was over, hundreds of New Castle motorists and pedestrians found that the streets and sidewalks were just about as slippery as they could be.

And there were plenty of pedestrians who were falling, but the fell when they did fall. The snow was of the most skiddest species old man weather could produce. They are still slippery today, but not like Thursday afternoon.

A book could be written all about the narrow escape witnessed Thursday afternoon.

The automobile was going calmly down a grade near the end of the car line, East Washington street, when the car either decided to get fresh or else it could not help going into a sort of epileptic fit. Anyway, it went up on the sidewalk to its right and turned completely around, missing a young lady walking down the street, by not much margin. The occupants of the car were not at all the worse for the whoopee ride.

Just as this auto straightened up, an awkward big truck, thinking itself exceedingly original, did the same trick—skidded giddily and turned the opposite direction. But the truck paid for its fun by getting stuck in a ditch.

Walking down East Washington street, an elderly lady kerplunked to the ground, several people going to her assistance. She said that for once, she had forgotten to put adhesive on the soles of her shoes. But, the writer thinks that even adhesive would have bowed to the supremacy of the icy walks of New Castle, Thursday.

An automobile, driven by a blonde Ray street miss, did some entertaining near the East Washington street Pennsylvania station, yesterday. The car seems to be acrobatically inclined, by its actions, when the miss was Bird-life forms an attractive feature of Pennsylvania's out-of-doors. Over two hundred and thirty species, many of them rare, occur in our state during the course of the year. The most interesting of them are those which spend the year round with us, or rear their young during the summer and return to their ancestral home further south with the advent of autumn.

The species which spend the entire year in Pennsylvania are relatively non-migratory. These are hardy birds, well equipped with warm coats for winter weather. The smaller species subsist on seeds and berries, and dormant insects during the winter. Among these permanent residents are several birds of prey which feed upon small mammals, and most of our game birds. The year-round resident birds of Pennsylvania, which should be well known by everyone, are as follows:

Rose Avenue Association Holds
Its Usual Meeting With Large Number Out

Members of the Rose avenue school Parent-Teachers' association met Thursday afternoon at the school for a most interesting program. Mrs. Albert Theophilus was in charge throughout the afternoon.

The meeting was opened by the P. T. A. song, led by Mrs. Stanley Reese. Miss Dart then read the P. T. A. Prayer.

The following program was given by the school children:

Songs: The Fiddle

Afternoon Call—Grade 2A

Songs: The New Year

Bobby Shaftoe—Grade 1B2

(Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Mackey)

A reading demonstration was given by the 1B class, under the supervision of Miss Doris Davidson.

Mrs. G. Wilfred Thomas, a delegate to the first P. T. A. district conference at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Pittsburgh, gave a very interesting report of what the counties surrounding Lawrence are doing in P. T. A. work. Mrs. Manley Bates was a delegate to this same district conference and told of the summer-round-up and program building for P. T. A. organizations, and of the address by Mrs. Kiernan, honorary state president on "Steady Growth".

Mrs. G. H. Colnot sang a lovely solo accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Brown.

After the meeting was adjourned the parents were invited to the various classrooms to see an exhibit of the children's work.

Tweeds To Remain In Spring Styles

By ALICE LANGEIER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 17.—Tweeds will twitter just as much in the spring as they have been doing all this winter, according to the freshest reports from the couturiers, but this means softer and lighter tweeds, of course, which will not be too heavy and warm when the sun shines brighter.

A number of the new spring tweeds are extremely light, this lightness being obtained either by the quality of the yarn or by the way the yarns are woven, some for instance are called basket-weaves and resemble etamine; others are as porous as jersey and some pretty novelties are featured with white loops on a mixture ground, while others are woven with rayon and wool.

Many of the new tweeds for the spring are woven so as to show clearly the structure of the material and some are patterned to show large designs, such as Scottymayah, with large geometrical designs in opposition to soft colorings with knickers. Nearly all the new tweeds are very colorful and some come in multi-color effects.

One house is showing a feather-weight tweed tricot in small pattern of green and black on creamy ground. The coat is knee-length pocketed and trimmed with beaver and the one-piece buttons down the front and is belted at a high waistline with brown calf-skin.

Yellow, brown and blue are united in a striking new tweed ensemble worn with a blouse of pale yellow tulip-kasha.

Another will sponsor a lovely soft eucalyptus-green and fresh almond for spring wear to supplant the winter gowns.

Song and game birds must be fed during the winter time when snow covers the ground. The kind of foods which will be greatly appreciated by practically all of those creatures include scratch feed, good screenings, chick feed, wheat, oats, rye, barley, broom corn, millet, sunflower seed, suet, bread and cake crumbs, and scraps from the table.

Game Protectors throughout the entire state stand ready to furnish all the food possible. He stands ever ready to help organize feeding campaigns in his section. All that he needs now is the support of those interested. The protector in your vicinity cannot hope to cope with the gigantic task of carrying enough food into the mountains without help of some kind.

The people of Pennsylvania sense the need for feeding game, but somehow or other some of them just don't get started. The right spirit is there but the enthusiasm is lacking. Starvation is no pleasant death, even to a wild creature.

Unlike some great foreign countries we protect our song and insectivorous birds so that our lives may be made happier upon hearing their beautiful songs and seeing their dashing colors. We protect our game birds except during open seasons for hunting. If anyone kills a song bird in Pennsylvania as a direct intention to violate the law he is fined $10.00. If he kills a game bird contrary to law he is fined $25.00.

Is it right then that the nature lovers of the state should sit idly by and permit an even greater number of valuable birds than are killed as a violation die the far worse death of starvation?

Basin Miners Burn Ikons In Bonfire

International News Service
MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—In a gigantic anti-religious demonstration of 15,000 coal miners in the district of Gorlovka, Don basin, 4,000 ikons were burned in a huge bonfire. The ikons were taken from numerous churches in the district, all of which were ordered closed for worship and will be turned into clubs. The miners proudly sent a telegram about the celebration and bonfire to Joseph Stalin as General Secretary of the Communist party.

Considering the fact that the State Export Trade corporation is buying up thousands of ikons for sale abroad, the news of 4,000 of these precious relics of an ancient art going up in smoke was probably received with chagrin in Moscow.

"Repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."—Matthew 4:17.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

One of the two "corner posts" which mark the outline of Matthew is found in this lesson at 4:17: "From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent: for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand." The second one is found at 16:21: "From that time forth began Jesus to show unto his disciples how that he must go unto Jerusalem and suffer, etc." All that lies between these two points, and which will make up the basis of our studies for the next three months, has to do with the preaching of the King. What follows 16:21 deals with the passion of the King.

Outline of Jesus' Life

Jesus' public life comprised about three years, the first of which may be called "the year of obscurity," and was spent largely in Judea, the record of which is given in the first four chapters of John; the second year, which was spent almost entirely in Galilee, may be called his "year of popularity," this being the point in his career where our lesson for this week finds Jesus choosing his apostles from among the disciples he has quietly gathered the year before; the third year of Jesus' life may be called the "year of opposition," the first half of which was spent in Galilee, and the last half in other parts of the land, chiefly Judea.

Choosing the Twelve

The time had come for the King to gather about him his cabinet, those whom he would prepare to minister the affairs of his kingdom after his passion. "And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers. And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway left their nets and followed him." This was not the first time these fishermen had met Jesus. A year before they had had their first contact with him (John 1:40), and they had had a year to marvel over his wondrous words to them. But now he calls them to leave all and follow him, and they accept his call. Their acceptance resulted in the fulfillment of his promise to them. For Jesus truly "made" those twelve men what they "became." "Follow me and I will make you to become." Voices opposed to him say, "Follow me and I will break you" and myriad of broken lives testify to the breaking. But Jesus truly "makes men to become" powers and towers for God and for good, just as he did with those twelve whom he "made" into the most potent moulders of world thought and life the world has ever seen.

Make Inspection Of George Washington High

Two members of the Bellevue board of education, Mrs. Nellie Robertson and Mrs. Belle M. Johnston accompanied by Miss Agnes Dickson principal of Bellevue's junior high school made a thorough inspection of the George Washington Junior high school Thursday afternoon.

Yesterday's trip was for inspection purposes solely, Bellevue being in line for a new junior high school some time during the present year.

The group learned of the local school through a letter which the Pennsylvania department of public instruction sent them in reply to their request asking for the department's opinion of the most representative junior high plan in this section of the state. In the letter the department suggested visits to the Taylor-Alderlee junior high of Pittsburgh, the Mt. Lebanon junior high and the George Washington building here.

The five remaining members of the board S. Frank McKee, chairman; Homer Freese, James Graham, Harry Pickering and R. D. Jenkinson will visit the building Saturday.

Average Man Knows
All Of 60,000 Words

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—The average American knows about 60,000 words, or four times as many as Shakespeare, who is credited with having had the world's greatest vocabulary, according to Prof. Miles A. Hanley, of the University of Wisconsin.

Prof. Hanley made this estimate here recently while attending the 46th convention of the Modern Language Association of America.

Many of the words forming the present-day vocabulary and dictionary were not in existence when Shakespeare lived and wrote, Prof. Hanley pointed out. While the average American probably knows 60,000 words, it must not be taken for granted that he uses them. Shakespeare knew his 15,000 words intimately.

December Record Month With Red Cross Chapter

December was a record month, according to the statistical report of the secretary, transmitted to National headquarters.

During the month, assistance was rendered to 118 different ex-service men, these services ranging from assistance in procuring loans on Adjusted Compensation, to material financial assistance to those in desperate need.

In the neighborhood of fifty veterans were aided in filing claims for Adjusted Compensation, the final date for the filing of these papers having been fixed by the government as January 2, 1930, and there was a tremendous rush during the closing days of the month to have these claims filed.

One of the outstanding services rendered was that of assisting a family to re-establish their home after they had been burned out. This ex-service man lost all of his belongings in a fire. Two beds, and bed clothing, dishes, a stove, and other furniture were secured, and the man's family was moved to another locality in the county where he had received employment.

In addition to this, coal was furnished to four families of ex-service men, where the man was out of work and unable to provide the necessities of life, while groceries were furnished to five other families of ex-service men in need.

Five death claims were handled for the families of deceased ex-service men, the government providing assistance in these cases. One family was sent to another locality, having become stranded here and threat-

New Cohan Play For Auditorium

GEORGE M. COHAN

George M. Cohan is to bring his newest production, a play by Lewis B. Elly called "Sporting Blood," to the Cathedral Auditorium in New Castle for two performances only on Saturday, January 25. This is the much-talked about farce that is to be seen at three special matinees in Pittsburgh before coming here. The Pittsburgh arrangement was made so that Mr. Cohan, who is to play there in "Gambling" at the same time, could see his newest offering.

"Sporting Blood" is announced as a fast moving, Gogheque show, telling a story about high love among literary lions. A Boston author, a New York publisher, a woman book reviewer and a chorus girl from a revue are among the principal characters.

Those prominent in the featured roles are Ruth Shepley, Walter Connolly and Frank Elliott, all expert farceurs. Sam Forrest, who staged all the Cohan productions in recent years, directed the new play.

Mr. Elly wrote "Thoroughbreds" in which George Marion was starred a few years ago, and "His Dry Town" had marked success. He is a native New Yorker and is said to have drawn his characters in "Sporting Blood" from real people.

It is quite likely that the play will go to Chicago immediately after the local engagement. A big company is promised and all the customary scenic extravagance of a Cohan attraction is guaranteed. In New Castle "Sporting Blood" is to be given exactly as Chicago is to see it.

NEW MEDICINE SOON RELIEVED HER AILMENTS

Lady On Route 6 Says Whole System Responded To Famous Ten Herbs.

Every day more men and women of all ages vouch for the amazing power of Ten Herbs, the celebrated medicine with the ten wonderful natural ingredients. When you take Ten Herbs into your ailing system and it begins to drive out awful accumulations of waste matter, impurities and troublesome gas; when it benefits and invigorates sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and relieves rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a weak, run-down condition—then you will understand why so many people of this city and vicinity are praising this new medical preparation. If you would be well, get a bottle of Ten Herbs today at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where this popular compound is being introduced. Often the first bottle gives astonishing relief.

Many are praising Ten Herbs these days, and I want to add my praise, because of the way your medicine benefited my whole system," was the statement of Mrs. Lafe Shaffer, R. F. D. No. 6, New Castle. "I had indigestion so badly that I could eat scarcely anything without being distressed with gas and bloating. Even the most wholesome food disagreed with my stomach. Sometimes the gas caused a soreness in my stomach and made such a pressure and heaviness after a meal that I could hardly breathe. My liver must have been disordered, as I felt drowsy and sluggish and was inclined to fall asleep during the day. My appetite was poor. I had headaches, and there were pains in the region of my kidneys.

Ten Herbs was benefiting so many people in this city, that I tried your medicine, and it helped me, too. My appetite improved, and food began to digest better than it had for a long time. I got more nourishment from what I ate, and gas, bloating, and soreness in my stomach were relieved. That feeling of heaviness and shortness of breath after a meal disappeared. My liver and kidneys were benefited. I became free of that drowsy, sluggish feeling, and gained in strength. I also got relief from headaches and the pains in my back. Ten Herbs helped me so much that I do not hesitate to recommend your medicine to others."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, and is sold at all drug and medicine stores throughout this entire section.

$500 Loss Is Caused By Fire

Sick Woman And Child Carried From Burning Structure By Firemen

Firemen were called to a double frame house owned by Walter E. Wilson at 709-709½ State street at 6 o'clock last evening by an alarm from box 62, where they found a blaze threatening the structure. Damage of approximately $500 was caused by the fire.

Mrs. Roy Watkins, who with her husband and family occupied one side of the structure was carried from the home by the firemen. Both Mrs. Watkins and a small child were confined to their beds by illness.

The blaze which originated in a clothes press had spread to the bedroom where firemen arrived on the scene. It is believed to have been caused from matches left in clothing hanging in the closet, Assistant Fire Chief H. Clare Stockman states.

Loss to the building was estimated at $250, while the damage to the contents was approximately the same. No insurance was carried on the contents, owned by Mr. Watkins.

SEVENTH WARD HOME ENTERED

Detective John Young and Officer Thomas Lynch on Thursday answered a call to the home of A. Marconi, 215 West Cherry street, to investigate a robbery occurring there. According to the information secured by the officers, the home had been entered during the night of January 15.

The house was entered by forcing open a rear door. The only thing of value reported missing is a pair of galoshes.

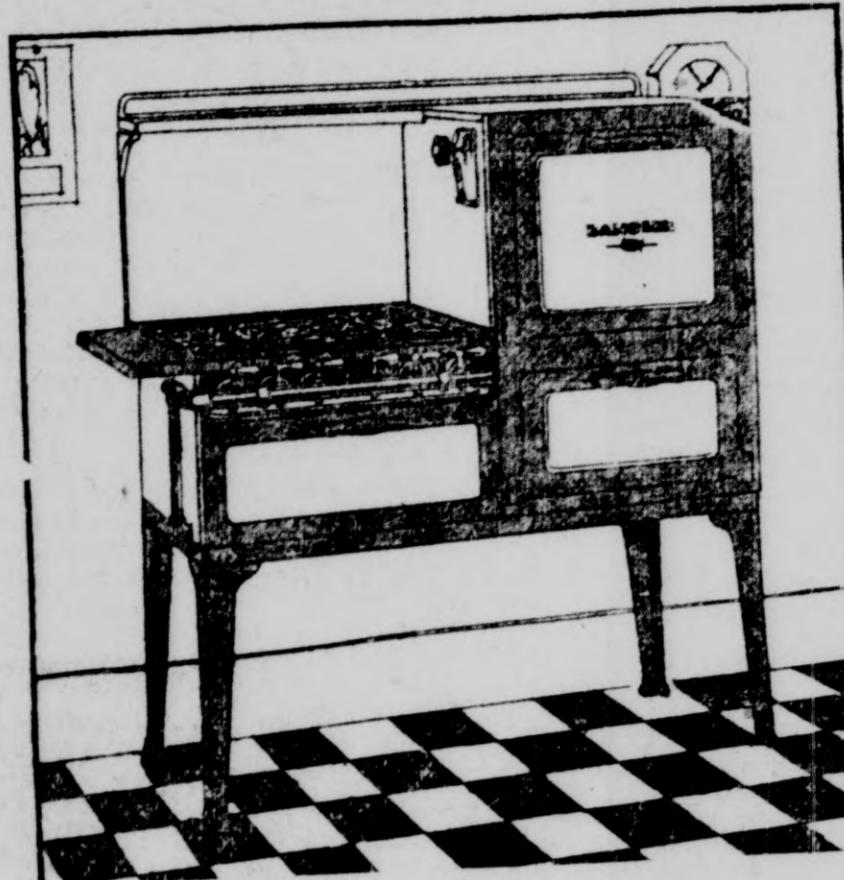

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. W. E. McClure and she talked on doing the worth while things in this life and leaving undone the things that did not count. She mentioned that we waste a lot of time doing things that do not accomplish much when done.

A short memorial service was held for those members who passed into the great beyond during the past year and Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Gilfillan were the ones who had died.

It is a striking commentary on the stability of the state that, despite the invalidation of those 1493 laws passed by the legislature, Connecticut seems still to be holding its own.

Merchant Leaves Charity Bequests In Will Filed

MEADVILLE, PA., Jan. 17.—A trust fund to aid in the proper observance of Independence Day in Meadville and another to purchase shoes and stockings for the poor children of the city were among bequests set aside in the will of the late Sol J. Stern, probated here Thursday. Stern, a retired merchant, died here earlier this month.

Many charitable bequests were made. These included $250 to the Hebrew Home for Consumptives at Denver; $250 to the Hebrew Union college at Cincinnati; $500 to the B'nai B'rith children's home at Erie and $500 to the Children's Aid and Home for the Aged at Meadville.

The estate totalled approximately $200,000, the bulk of which was left to Stern's widow, J. J. Rothschild, a nephew of Pittsburgh, was bequeathed $10,000 and $30,000 more was placed in trust for him in a Pittsburgh bank.

It is hard to imagine anything that would please the south pole explorers more than their discovery of science. They have separate fields. If we do not see this clearly, we confuse the issue and we confuse ourselves.

EPICUREANS

There really ought to be a better understanding in these modern times of the philosophy of pleasure and happiness as it was set forth by many civilized teachers many hundreds of years ago. Many carelessly think the Epicureans believed in self-indulgence in doing whatever for the moment seemed to yield the greatest thrill and the liveliest pleasure. The fact is that the teachers of the philosophy of pleasure and happiness had a different idea. They believed that doing good as nearly as man knew the universe from the viewpoint of religion is one thing, and the universe from the viewpoint of science is something else. They have separate fields.

If we do not see this clearly, we confuse the issue and we confuse ourselves.

THE OTHER ATTACK

As far as the attack on religion on the part of certain scientists and so-called free thinkers, religion is of little value if it cannot hold its place in the world against all attack. Whatever cannot stand assault will be destroyed. If the teachings of religion can be proved untrue, then we might as well be rid of them. No philosophy which cannot stand the most powerful light of investigation deserves to have a following.

The universe from the viewpoint of religion is one thing, and the universe from the viewpoint of science is something else. They have separate fields.

If we do not see this clearly, we confuse the issue and we confuse ourselves.

NEVER IN 17 YEARS

For 17 years, more or less, Edgerton has been appraising human nature in its relation to credit risks.

Never yet, he says dogmatically, has he ever run across that much touted physiognomy which in itself is popularly presumed to be sufficient recommendation for opening a charge account or having a check cashed without identification.

"The honest face is a myth, a legend and an exploded fallacy, judged in the light of scientific credit knowledge," he says. "Honesty today is measured by facts recorded on 60,000,000 master cards filed away in the 1,060 branch bureaus of the National Retail Credit Association, serving 200,000 merchant members throughout the United States.

"No longer does a modern shopkeeper or store proprietor attempt to judge the solvency of a patron by the same rule of thumb methods which existed 20 years or so ago, when the 'honest face' classification was packed away in its lavender resting place.

"Where it was once the custom for a credit manager to size up his prospect by such superficial evidence as the torn or whole condition of her gloves, today that same manager who has watched his calling rise to the level and dignity of a profession, has recourse to accurate information detailing the financial history of every person who has ever purchased so much as a single herring from his corner butcher shop."

Honesty, Edgerton says, is purely a relative term, anyhow. The man with the steepest, hardest kind of face, is probably as honest as his neighbor who owns a countenance angelic based upon fact, record and experience.

Believing that his team did not show its full strength in the St. Francis game, Coach Elmer Cottrell of the local Teachers read the riot act to the 15 men remaining on the squad, following last week's cut. Rigorous scrimmage drills during the first part of the week indicated that the coach intended to have an improvement in the team play and the physical condition of his men.

Boss Credit Manager Of Country Says There Never Have Been Any, Yet Only 10 Persons In 1,000 Try To Beat Bills

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Central Press Correspondent.
CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—There's no such thing as an honest face. Honest faces went out of style as an expression with the mauve decade. People don't wear them any more. In fact, my dear, they never did.

Authority for this statement is Justin H. Edgerton, a mild-mannered man with a keen eye. He is the boss credit manager of the country, and ought to know whereof he speaks, in his official capacity as president of the National Retail Credit Association.

enough statistics prove that 99 out of every 100 people in the United States are to be trusted.

Ten in One Thousand

Only 10 people in 1,000 try to beat their bills. And most losses incurred in business can be charged to bad checks tendered in payment in over-the-counter cash sales, as compared with a loss of less than four-tenths of one per cent on properly-vestigated charge accounts, he revealed.

Edgerton also announced that the National Retail Credit Association is soon to launch a $7,000,000 newspaper advertising campaign to teach the American public the advantage of credit and the economic importance of meeting bills on time.

Believing that his team did not show its full strength in the St. Francis game, Coach Elmer Cottrell of the local Teachers read the riot act to the 15 men remaining on the squad, following last week's cut. Rigorous scrimmage drills during the first part of the week indicated that the coach intended to have an improvement in the team play and the physical condition of his men.

Shooting has occupied a large part of each practice as the Slippery Rock quintet prepares for the Edinboro game on Friday evening at Edinboro. The fact that the green and white quintet only scored 12 fouls out of 30 chances was impressed upon the regulars as one means of winning future close games.

Carl Fehrenbach, Allegheny high star, continues to be the outstanding star of the early season play. The Pittsburgh boy is by far the most likely looking candidate that has reported to Coach Cottrell in years. He is being used at guard, and chances are that he may team with James Rowlands of Homestead. These two boys are showing a lot in recent practices.

Perhaps the one simple thing you are not doing to guarantee permanent health is having sufficient roughage in your food. Absence of this roughage is the direct cause of constipation which results in so many other ills—headaches, listlessness, general depression, indigestion and, sometimes, serious disease.

Gilda Gray Happy Over Her Divorce

Famous Shimmy Dancer Gets Final Decree Of Divorce From Gil Boag

Milwaukee Girl Of Polish Parents Has Had Varied Career As Dancer

By DAVID P. SENTNER International News Service Dramatic Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—"I am so happy that I am free."

Gilda Gray, Venus of vibrations, thus received the news that her divorce had become final from Gil Boag, former night club owner and theatrical producer.

The decree was granted in Waukesha, Wis.

The immigrant dancing girl, who taught the world to shimmy, spikes the report that she has to marry T. Frank Stewart, retired millionaire broker.

Just Good Friends.

"We are just good friends," she declared. "It is a beautiful friendship, far truer and finer than the sordid thing Broadway knows as love."

Would she ever marry again? "Never," said Gilda. "From now on I am only an artist—never again a wife."

The occasion celebrated the second divorce obtained by the pretty quiver-girl.

She was divorced from her first husband, John Daniel Gorecki, a bartender, in 1923.

"Do you ever expect to see Gil Boag?" she was asked. "I hope not," she replied vehemently.

To Enter Talkies.

She said that she was resting after an arduous vaudeville tour and planned to go to Hollywood to do a talking picture in a few months.

"I have been working hard since 1919 and am now doing the things I always wanted to do," she said. "I am swimming, golfing and playing tennis."

Gilda's real name is Marianna Michalska. Her parents came from Poland to Milwaukee in 1885. She began dancing at the age of seven and at 17 was a dancer in a Milwaukee cafe earning $10 a week.

From there she went to Chicago where her fascinating imitation of an earthquake brought her to New York. She danced in the light club

Bride For Premier Worries Rumania

Maniu's Name Being Linked With Princess Cantacuzino

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Jan. 17.—Gossips are busy settling the matrimonial future of Premier Julius Maniu, fifty-six-year-old bachelor leader of Rumania. His name is being linked with Princess Cantacuzino, the widow of the last vice-president of the National Peasant Party, and a distant relative of President Ulysses S. Grant of the United States.

Other rumors declare he is about to take as his wife Mile Bragadu, daughter of the late "Beer King" of Rumania, and sister-in-law of Foreign Minister Mironescu.

Premier Maniu is the first bachelor Premier of Rumania. Until the death of his mother, the remarkable Madame Clara Maniu, the head of the Rumanian Government had only two interests—his country and his mother.

Characteristic of his entire attitude toward honors and social prestige, this leader of the Peasant Party who was strong enough to break the power of an all-influential Bratianu, has steadfastly clung to a sort of social isolation.

But with the death of his mother, this isolation has broken down somewhat and social and official circles are making various guesses about Premier Maniu's matrimonial plans.

Duck Hawk Is Killer Of Capital Pigeons

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Is friend neither man or beast, it enjoys an outcast's life far up in the watch tower of the Postoffice Department Building—a refuge haunted with the dying gags of its victims and cluttered with the remnants of their skeletons.

An unwelcome resident; a merciless killer, but so far unmolested by the federal government's law enforcement agencies.

Every day one life at least is taken in the vicinity of Pennsylvania Avenue. Sometimes the casualties number two, three and four. Cries of the victims are heard by observers below who watch the death struggles but are powerless to aid. Flesh and bone that struggled so desperately against such a horrible death lay still and blood drops fall from the tower to a ledge below. The same scene is enacted time and again.

It's the new duck-hawk that has taken lodging in the tower to prey upon the city's flocks of pigeons. It seizes them as they fly high above the street.

The authorities are waiting to see if the bird preys upon the schools of starlings that are causing considerable annoyance in the downtown section. If it does it will be praised. If it doesn't chase the starlings away and continues to feast on pigeons it will be destroyed.

Soviet Debt Is More Than Doubled

(International News Service) MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—The internal debt of the Soviet Union has increased 100 per cent in the last year. It now totals 2,547,000,000 rubles (nominally $1,275,000,000) as against $650,000,000 last year. The annual interest and amortization bill on this debt is about half a million rubles which ought to be charged against state-owned industry because most of the money was borrowed for capital construction.

Individuals hold 60 per cent of the loan bonds and co-operative societies and corporations the remainder. Peasants who comprise 85 per cent of the population have subscribed only 3 rubles per capita while the urban residents hold 10 times as much. The loans are placed by deducting one month's pay from workers and employees.

An opportunity well taken is the only weapon of advantage.—Japan Ueda.

GARDEN DEPARTMENT

The balmy weather of the past few days has been an urgent reminder from Nature that this is the month in which we must lay our plans for next summer's flowers. If we expect to visualize the garden pictures we have in the background of our minds, No good club woman would expect to take charge of a successful meeting without having first completed all her arrangements; nor would a good gardener expect anything but chaos unless the plans were well formulated. The 1930 seed catalogs are now ready, many of them full of suggestions for the amateur, and most of them may be had for the asking. A number of the current magazines contain a wealth of information for the gardener, and a few moments taken now in reading and digesting these interesting articles will probably result in many hours of pleasure throughout the summer season.

Annuals are an essential part of every garden, coming to us as they do from almost every part of the world, and producing within a single season, great masses of bloom. In a short time they can change an unattractive spot to a thing of beauty—pride to the owner and a joy to the whole neighborhood, and happily, there are varieties that bloom from early Spring to late Fall, shifting the beauty and fragrance from one spot in the garden to another, as though touched by some fairy's wand.

Color today seems to be paramount, not only in our interior decorations, but in our "out-door" living room" as well. Below are a few good annuals which combine well together:

Orange and Scarlet; Nasturtiums; Caliopsis and nasturtiums; African marigolds with scarlet sage; various colors of zinnias; zinnias bordered by French marigolds; gaillardias and French marigolds.

Lavender or Violet with Orange: Orange King African Marigolds bordered by ageratum; lavender or violet asters with French marigolds to fill the space before the asters bloom; larkspur with California poppy; salpiglossis.

Deep Blue and Yellow: Caliopsis with cornflower; Lilliputian zinnias to edge bed of larkspur.

Light Pink and Pale Yellow: Snapdragons, Lemon Queen marigolds, edged with snapdragons; phlox drummondii; light pink verbena to edge bed of lemon snapdragons; scabiosa.

Gray-Leaved Plants with Pink Other Pleasing Color: Dusty miller and pink snapdragons; ten-week stock.

Maroon-Colored Annuals Contrasted with White: Black Prince Snapdragons; maroon scabiosa with ornamental tobacco; bed of Black Prince snapdragon edged with sweet alyssum.

While there is no annual that thrives well without some sun, there are a few that will succeed well in partial shade, such as the butterfly-flower; China-aster; cornflower; forget-me-not; godetia; monkeyflower; nemophila; pansy; toronia; snapdragon; sweet alyssum.

The seeds of almost any annual which is self-sowing may be planted in the Fall, such as poppies, cornflowers, larkspur, etc., thus insuring a much earlier bloom than if sown in the Spring. However, if you have not done this, you will find by planting the seeds in flats or pots indoors in February and transplanting when the weather permits, that they will bloom ahead of outdoor planting, and you will be rewarded with a much longer period of actual enjoyment.

Shall we not all consult our seed books and magazines, and jot down our plans in a tangible form? Let us try to make Lawrence county not only a thing of beauty to ourselves, but a joy to all who pass our way.

Theater Is Closed; Was Too Artistic

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Proving are perhaps, that Democracy alone can prevail, one of the most beautiful theaters in the nation's capital has closed its doors because it catered to the artistic few compared with more successful playhouses which made their appeal to all.

The new year will see permanently dark Schubert-Belasco's playhouse, an edifice built by an architect who so designed it that only those who could afford orchestra and mezzanine seats could see the stage in comfort.

Local critics bemoaned the passing of a beautiful theater, but welcomed the closing of Belasco's as a sign of a larger and more comfortable playhouse would fill its place. Orchestra and mezzanine seats were luxuriously comfortable, and close to the stage. The galleries, on the other hand, were cramped, and built at such an angle that spectators felt in danger of tumbling from its steep slope to death.

Manager after manager leased the place and tried to make a go of it. Good shows were booked. But time proved the steep galleries would not draw trade. Only the orchestra and mezzanine were filled except on occasions rare indeed.

The struggle has been abandoned

Records That Can't Be Broken

THE PEN may be mightier than the sword, but it isn't half as powerful as the new material that is to be used for phonograph records. If the newsreel pictures and the talkies are accurate criteria the pen together with the printing press may be due for a long vacation. And the spoken word will indeed be ruler of a new kingdom where newspapers and magazines will emerge in the guise of phonograph records.

The new and wonderful material announced recently by Doctors Louis Hammatt and George H. Walden, Jr., is called "Durium" and is all that its name implies. For it is durable to the point of unbreakability and of equal flexibility, making it ideal for phonograph records in particular. But the old type of record that dropped when any one looked at it. Not by a long shot! The new durium records can do duty as a tea-pot stand, a dinner plate, a door-mat or a nice toy for baby without in the least impairing their efficiency or tonal properties.

Durium is so inexpensive that it is planned to issue standard sized records each week, to be retailed at 15 cents apiece through such agencies of distribution as newsstands and various retail stores in much the same way as the weekly magazine is marketed. It is easy from this to visualize the time when the weekly paper will consist of records amplifying the news-reel pictures that have taken such a hold on popular imagination. We may even read our recorded newspapers from it.

'Sag's' Gum Of Turkestan May Be New Rubber

Soviet Scientists May Be Able To Convert Weed Into Profit

NATIVES USED IT FOR CHEWING GUM

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—The chewing gum which bushy-haired dirt-eaten Khorasan cowboys munched for centuries to keep their mouths moist in the deserts of Turkestan may revolutionize the rubber industry of the world.

Soviet scientists have succeeded in manufacturing soft rubber articles like soles for shoes, automobile tires and overshoes out of this precious stuff that the natives called "sag's".

Professor G. G. Borsig has disclosed the manner in which the new rubber was discovered. Chief of the rubber trust experimental laboratory says:

"Finns in the belief that there were plants in the Soviet Union from which a substitute for ordinary rubber could be obtained, the laboratory experts to school teachers, county agriculture agents and chairmen of village Soviets. Placards announcing the hunt for rubber were hoisted in market places.

Specimens Studied

"Hundreds of replies were received with specimens of plants and resinous substances. All of them were carefully examined in the laboratory. Of the few picked for further investigation, two desert weeds known as chondrilla ambigua and chondrilla juncea, growing wild in Turkestan, were believed to hold the greatest possibilities.

"It was then discovered that Khorasanians chewed a chicle obtained from a root secretion of the chondrilla ambigua.

A red beetle called Sphenoptera was found to be a parasite that preyed on the chondrilla ambigua. It bored into the ground at the base of the plant into the thick, stalky roots. Out of this wound, the plant excreted a gummy sap which coagulated into a bulbous growth.

It was these bulbs that the natives gathered by pulling up the whole plant and boiling down the bulbs. The pickers received 75 kopeks (40 cents) a kilogram for the bulbs.

"Artificial cuts on the roots of the plant produced the same results with unfailing regularity. Hence, scientists have planted several hundreds acres of the seed for large scale experiments. The gummy bulbs contain about 30 per cent pure soft rubber and a considerable quantity of resin. With large scale scientific planting, it is hoped to reduce the cost of the raw bulbs to 15 cents a kilogram, which would make the cost of a kilogram of rubber about 75 cents.

Millions Saved

"In addition to the saving of millions of dollars annually in gold for imported rubber, the discovery will have an important political meaning in developing and populating the troublesome province of Turkestan. To supply the needs of the Soviet Union with rubber, several hundreds of thousands of people would have to be settled in the deserts for the raising of chondrilla on territory which today is an absolute loss to the country.

"The government has appropriated $300,000 for large-scale experiments and planting of the weed. Only after these experiments will it be known to what extent the new rubber will be commercially profitable.

"With foreign credits and the gold supply as scarce as it is in Soviet, Russia, however, the internal domestic cost of production could be 100 per cent above the world market price of ordinary rubber and still be profitable.

Hear More Cars Will Be Needed For 1930 Freight

Prediction Of Increase Made At New York Meeting Of Eastern Shippers

Indications that freight car loadings in the Atlantic states territory during the first quarter of 1930 will surpass actual shipments made during the corresponding period of last year, were seen in the reports submitted at the meeting of the Atlantic States Shippers' Advisory board held in New York City at noon today, and a report of which was received at local headquarters of the Pennsylvania railroad this afternoon.

While only 775,569 cars were used in moving basic commodities during January, February and March of last year, the shippers learned today that 782,712 cars will be necessary during the same quarter this year, local freight agents

Chamber Of Commerce Urges Commissioners To Erect Court House

Recommend That Proper Steps Be Taken To Acquire Site And Erect Building

Lockhart Believes Building Can Be Erected Without Additional Bond Issue

Speaking before members of the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, County Solicitor John P. Lockhart, stated that in his opinion, it may be possible to relieve congested conditions now existing at the Lawrence county court house, without the necessity of an additional bond issue.

This statement will relieve much of the anxiety in minds of those who might be opposed to this progressive step and seems to pave the way for early action by the county commissioners on the project.

The meeting was called by the Chamber of Commerce to secure an opinion on the necessity for erecting a new court house and the steps which would be necessary to secure action on the proposition.

The meeting, in the nature of a luncheon at The Castleton, was attended by County Commissioners T. J. McCullough, and C. C. Boyd, and their attorney, John P. Lockhart, in addition to Carl Paisley and Verne county commissioners of Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, take proper steps to acquire such property as is, in their opinion, necessary, and continue in their activities for the erection of a new court house for Lawrence county. The Chamber of Commerce will do everything possible to cooperate with and assist them in this project."

Those present in addition to the guests mentioned above, were: President W. F. Moody, directors, T. W. Dickey, L. G. Love, Ira M. Ramsey, L. G. Genkinger, H. L. Gordon, W. W. Duff, John H. Lamb, James M. Smith, Hon. J. A. Chambers, W. J. Offutt, and Secretary Alfred W. Chilton.

P. O. Elder, the other members of the board of commissioners was unable to attend the meeting yesterday because of a death in his family.

County solicitor stated that besides the possibility of erecting a new building without an additional bond issue, it might also be done without increasing the present millage.

Commissioner Boyd stated that the assessed valuation of the county at present was $74,000,000 and that the bonded indebtedness was $1,600,000 at the close of 1929. $80,000 of this amount has been recently retired. The present bonded indebtedness is much below the average in proportion to its wealth.

In discussing the project, it was brought out that there seemed to be no doubt of the present need for a new court house building. The steps that would be necessary to bring about the construction would be that a grand jury must first recommend the purchase of necessary property for its construction. This recommendation would then have to be approved by the court, which would give the county commissioners the authority to proceed.

A motion of approval was passed by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce as follows:

"The board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, in meeting assembled this 16 day of January, 1930, recommends that the

ROMANCE TO END IN DIVORCE

Divorce is to be the next chapter of the storybook romance of Ralph and Rosamund Gluck Powell, of Omaha, Neb. The couple met when Powell, a tennis star, was secretary to Mrs. Arthur Schoellkopf, of New York, wealthy widow of the power magnate, and his future wife was traveling companion to Mrs. Schoellkopf, her aunt. The aunt disapproved of the match and discharged them when they married. The Powells moved to Omaha and vastly changed surroundings, but apparently were happy. The divorce suit brought by Powell, charging cruelty and desertion and asking for custody of their son, Ralph, Jr., four, comes as a surprise to their friends.

Slander Is Alleged In Suit On Trial

Mrs. Emma Galich Wants $10,000 Damages From Mark Kastor Of Bessemer

Slander is alleged in a suit on trial before Judge Hildebrand today in which Emma Galich is asking $10,000 damages for injuries to her reputation as a result of a story told by Mark Kastor to the effect that she was going out with men in automobiles. Emma Galich is the wife of Joe Galich, both the plaintiff and defendant residing in Bessemer. Mrs. Galich claims that she has always been a good and true wife and that the stories circulated by Kastor have greatly injured her in the estimation of her friends.

High School Youth Victim Of Bullet

The boy was found lying unconscious in a pool of blood in the lavatory of the school after he had been excused from a class room. He died in a hospital here shortly after midnight, without having regained consciousness.

No motive for suicide is known.

Supreme Court Holds Husband Not To Blame For Mishap To Wife

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Growing litigation in the courts of the United States arising from damage suits instituted for injuries suffered while riding as guests in automobiles driven by owners offers a fruitful field for legislation in the States. The Supreme Court held today in deciding a case in which a wife had brought action against her husband.

"In this day of almost universal highway transportation by motor car," said the opinion rendered by Justice Stone, "we cannot say that abuses originating in the multiplicity of suits growing out of the gratuitous carriage of passengers in automobiles do not present so conspicuous an example of what the Legislatures may regard as an evil such as to justify legislation aimed at it, even though some abuses may not be hit."

The Court's comment was made in the case of Mae Silver of New Haven, Conn., who sued her husband, Benjamin Silver, for injuries received when his car bumped into a telephone pole.

The appeal came from the Supreme Court of Connecticut, which had sustained the decision of the lower Connecticut Court, holding that the State's law did not make the owner and driver nor his insurance liable in such a contingency. On the basis of the Connecticut law, the Court ruled that recovery could not be made, but indicated that it was wholly within the power of the State to create new rights by legislation.

Policeman's Corn Reveals Fugitive

Trampler Picks Poor Location; Recognized As Bail Jumper

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 17.—The corn on the foot of Police Lieutenant William Armstrong of the Los Angeles police was a sure enough pain to Samuel Seaman of Chicago.

Seaman, wanted here for bail jumping in a swindle case, is one of those persons who delight in a carpet of toes on which to walk when pursuing his way to his theater seat and such. It is said of him that he inclines to the unpopular practice of getting up at intermissions, trampling as many toes as are in his path, and then returning to his seat in much the same fashion.

The corn on the foot of Police Lieutenant Armstrong now becomes pertinent. It had been troubling him more than usual this particular day in Los Angeles. He decided to take in a boxing match where he could park it comfortably.

Seaman also went to the box fight. He had a seat in the same row as Armstrong. Armstrong had with him a circular with Seaman's picture telling that Seaman was wanted for jumping bond. Seaman trod rough shod toward his seat. Armstrong's corn was in his path. Seaman stepped on it. Armstrong leaped up. Then he looked his tormentor in the face. He snatched the Seaman circular from his pocket and arrested him.

Seaman was brought back to face trial on the original charge of swindling.

Tigers Club And Guests To Banquet

Annual Event Will Be Held In The Castleton Hotel On January 25

The annual dinner of the Tiger Club, one of the city's most enterprising organizations for the advancement of the interests of young men, will be an event of Saturday evening, January 25 at 6:30 o'clock in The Castleton hotel.

The affair is for the members, their mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts and a number of special guests and the plans made are such as to indicate that this event, the first ever held on such a large and elaborate scale, will be a great success.

Attorney George W. Muse has consented to act as master of ceremonies at the event and there will be a program of addresses by speakers of note and selections by the Tiger club singers, who are noted for their ability along musical lines.

At nine-thirty in the evening and following the dinner and program, dancing will be the diversion for the balance of the evening. The committee in charge consists of J. V. Bulano, chairman, Vitus Conti, E. Palus, J. Bordonaro Jr., F. Macariello, T. C. Richards, E. F. Strizzi, H. E. Ross, C. General, C. Scungio, F. DeLillo and E. Cassachia.

Invitations issued to the event are most unique and attractive. When the invited guests opened them up, he had every good reason to believe that he was subpoenaed on some important legal case. A closer inspection showed, however, that it was an invitation to come and spend an enjoyable evening with the members of this organization.

MODERN CHIEF WOULD CENSOR SHAKESPEARE

HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 17.—Where was the London censor when Shakespeare wrote?

That was the question asked by the Police Chief Emil Bunde after reading parts of a Christmas gift of a set of the works of the Bard of Avon.

"I wonder how he got by the London censor," said Chief Bunde, scanning a few breezy passages. "Now, I'd call those lines a trifle racy. But I guess this man Shakespeare is all right, after all. He knew everything and it's mighty interesting to read him."

$40,000 For Recovery Of Van Dyck Painting

Lloyd's Announces Reward In Mystery Of Stolen "Concert Of Angels"

BRUSSELS, Jan. 17.—The British insurance firm of Lloyd's has offered a reward of 200,000 francs for the recovery of the painting "Le Concert des Anges" by Anthony Van Dyck. The canvas had been cut from its frame while in transit from Brussels to a London dealer and the loss was discovered only when the packing case was opened at the latter's gallery.

M. Bechbache, the owner, stated he personally had superintended the packing of the art treasure in his home. He expressed surprise at reports from London that the thief had been committed here and pointed to the fact that the British customs officials had not noticed the absence of the canvas when examining the case in England. Acting on legal advice, M. Bechbache has lodged a complaint of theft with the king's prosecutor against "person or persons unknown."

This work by the 17th century court painter to Charles II has been estimated at $150,000.

Gorilla Racket New Method Of Chicago Gangs

By FRANCIS F. HEALY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 17.—It's a new racket—the "Gorilla Racket."

This concerns our old friend Jackie Guzik, who will be remembered as chief business agent for "Scarface Al" Capone, and now filling the shoes of the super gangster while he futilely offers the mouthpieces fifty grand if they can spring him from a Pennsylvania prison.

The scene opens in a loop-speak-easy. Harry Guzik, brother of Jackie, and three "gorillas" enter. The bartender scowls.

"We're sending up three cases," say Guzik laconically. "It'll cost ya $90 a case."

Proprietor Objects

"Oh, yeah," snorts the bartender. "Well, I'm getting good stuff now, better bourbon than yours, and it only costs me $70."

"You mean you were getting it. Lissen, we've been paying the coppers to lay off and you've been getting by. Now it's our turn to do a little horning in."

The speak-easy proprietor becomes a customer or—

First, there is the old fashioned way—a pineapple shoved through the doorway, a blast and bothersome investigation by cops anxious to produce a showing, state's attorney's inspector's newspapers asking that something be done about something, with the net result being that the proprietor must close down until things quiet.

But that's old fashioned and now it's the "ribbing" business.

The gorillas bluster and swagger about, profanely promising dire results. If the proprietor still holds out the ribbing starts.

Policemen enter the speakeasy all hours. That means many free drinks. Jackie has his own law "bigger and better reform society" with fake reformers who pester police headquarters demanding that this and that saloon be closed because of its being a public nuisance said nuisance originating from the fact that the proprietor won't play along with Jackie's beer boys.

Perhaps a mob of the boys will waltz in and hop the proprietor over the head to make him see things. That, too, is old fashioned, but it is still done.

In the end the proprietor "sees the light" and soon Jackie's golden poison is circulating in the drinking den.

Since prohibition, according to investigators, Capone has held the beer franchise on the downtown district, with Jackie and his brother, Harry, convicted of pandering with his wife, since pardoned by former Governor Small, doing the "heavy work."

But since the tightening up by both police and prohibition authorities, Jackie has entered the bourbon racket.

And the gorillas do the rest.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 17.—Mental physical, spiritual and musical development is what folk dancing gives according to Mrs. Florence Hobbs of Worcestershire, England, vice president of the English Folk Dancing association in an address before students at Boston University's Sargent School of Physical Education.

In this country there are three folk dancing centers, one of which is Boston, said Mrs. Hobbs. Interest in this type of dancing is increasing rapidly, so much so that a folk dance festival was held last year in the Boston armory she continued.

"Folk dances and their music are inseparable" Mrs. Hobbs said. "Music for folk dancing is extremely simple. But it is the germ of all great music.

With every other country in Europe full of unemployment, and the same problem growing in America, how does France manage, not only to keep her population working full time, but to have jobs for two or three million foreigners?

Economists and sociologists are puzzling over that question. France has more independent small farmers than any other nation, which may partially answer it—but only very partially. Leaders of French thought themselves are stumped by their own people's fortunate situation. Naturally, they are glad of it, but they would like to hit on the right explanation. It is highly important for them to do so. Seemingly their problem has stumbled, by pure accident, upon some great principle. So long as they do not know what it is, the danger is that they will stumble away from it just as accidentally.

Why does the secretary of war take official precedence over the secretary of the navy?

By right of seniority. The war department dates from 1789; the navy department only from 1798. Until the latter year the war secretary's jurisdiction included both branches of the service.

Can large vessels, such as battleships, come to Washington?

No only lighter draught war vessels, including light cruisers, can come up the Potomac river.

Does any part of continental North America remain unmapped?

It all is mapped after a fashion, but considerable areas remain un-surveyed, especially in interior Labrador, where the maps are largely a matter of guesswork.

Is there any drawback to the plan to draft labor and requisition capital, as well as to conscript soldiers in wartime?

The universal draft idea sounds too dictatorial to suit many people. For one thing, as usually suggested it could be applied to industrial and political as well as to military emergencies. Moreover, capital could not be drafted without amending or suspending the constitution. Large business interests have been favorable. Organized labor has fought it consistently.

When Governor Emerson of Wyoming appointed Pat Sullivan to serve out the late Senator Francis E. Warren's term Pat announced he would not seek election in November. Now he seems to be after the regular Republican nomination. Has he told why he changed his mind?

Yes: Senator Sullivan says the Washington climate relieves his asthma.

Thirty-nine universities were represented. A resolution declaring for compulsory military training was adopted and an amendment declaring that compulsion should not be exerted upon individual students was lost by a vote of 18 to 21. It is understood that the military training plan was proposed with the consent and encouragement of the British government in India. The Deputy Secretary of the Army Department announced to the conference that the government had in mind an intensive course of four-years training and would make funds available for it.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Swedish Divorcees Marry In Church

Swedish State Church Approves Though Clergy Opposes

(International News Service)
STOCKHOLM, Jan. 17.—Church weddings for divorced persons will continue to be granted in Sweden, despite bitter objections from some of the clergy, a recent conference of the established Swedish State Church decided by a vote of 31 to 26. Civil marriages are also legal in Sweden. When Princess Astrid married Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium 2 years ago, the mayor of Stockholm, Carl Lindhagen officiated, the two parties being of different religious faiths. But the modernized Swedish marriage law, which permits divorce by mutual consent after a year's separation and a formal property settlement, provides that those who desire a religious ceremony for a second marriage are entitled to it, and being servants of the state as well as of the church the Swedish Lutheran clergy have to conform.

Many bishops spoke against this constraint, calling many second marriages by divorced persons nothing better than polygamy under the forms of monogamy, but the majority feared that the national legislature would make civil marriages obligatory in all cases if the church refused its sanction to some. There is in Sweden a strong movement for a separation of church and state, and if that comes about it is likely that the Lutheran denomination would decline to re-marry the guilty parties in certain cases.

Secretary Of Treasury Goes Blandly On His Enforcement Way Despite Critics Crying For Scalp

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Secretary Mellon can appear more serenely indifferent to the progress of aught untoward, with a blood-thirsty war party at the congressional end of Pennsylvania avenue clamoring for his official scalp, than any other man in public life.

Persistently denounced by political critics, the average individual in a high government post betrays perturbation or resentment by trying to explain or defend himself, or mayhap by some defiant utterance.

Secretary Mellon simply gives no indication whatever of even knowing that a voice is being raised against him, though the Capitol dome may be reverberating with it.

Mr. Mellon does not look or behave like a thick-skinned person. On the contrary, he seems sensitive. My impression is that he would feel a jab keenly from anyone whose good opinion he valued. I imagine he could be driven to resign quite easily, if he considered himself justly found fault with.

However, I judge he feels that the rank and file of congressmen, as well as about 99 and a fraction per cent of ordinary folk, have not the slightest idea what they are talking about. When they do talk and jowls and orate he evidently considers that it does not amount to anything.

It may or it may not annoy him. If it does, presumably it annoys him as one might be annoyed by a swarm of gnats—the kind of irritation it would be childish to give way to and make a big fuss over.

Mr. Mellon is under the congressional prohibitionists' fire just at present—though no one would be aware of the fact, from any attention he is paying to it.

The drys doubtless are right in their judgment that he never has been in sympathy with the Eighteenth amendment or the Volstead law in principle, but it strikes me that they are mistaken in believing that that has hampered his department's enforcement efforts.

ANDREW W.
MELLON

On the contrary, I always have thought that the coast guard, which is a treasury adjunct, is the one agency that really has made something of an effective enforcement effort since it was equipped to take an active hand in combating rum smuggling.

The treasury's dry personnel ashore naturally have been lower grade men than the guardsmen from the beginning. That was to have been expected. The guard started as a picked, well-trained corps. As is generally recognized, every circumstance militated against the upbuilding of a capable dry land organization.

The guard certainly has deteriorated under prohibition, which also was to have been expected; it has been exposed to greater temptations. At that, it has been charged often with undue violence than with laxity or crookedness.

The shore force has been involved in a good many scandals, but so have the justice department's representatives—perhaps just as many as the treasury's, in proportion to numbers.

That Secretary Mellon has not been an enthusiastic prohibition enforcement head may be true. After all, it is only one of the multiplicity of treasury details.

On the other hand, it is hard to think of anyone who could have had any less real objection to enforcement.

Many times a millionaire, no one could possibly have made it worth his while to wink at violations—or let his subordinates do so. Unquestionably supplied with ample stores of legally acquired refreshments, prohibition can mean nothing to him personally.

It is not disputed that Mr. Mellon owned some distillery stock during the ante-Volstead period, but, as a financier on a huge scale, he acquired interests in all sorts of industries, and distilling was only an incidental one among them; by no means his most important.

Still, obviously he was not a total abstinenace advocate.

Neither is he now a dry crusader, but is that a sound reason for removing him as secretary of the treasury? Unless, to say the least, he actually neglects enforcement. For one thing, Mr. Mellon is nearly 75; too old to lead liquor raids.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

Aguinaldo Goes Into Hiding

BY THE FALL OF 1899 THE WAR IN THE PHILIPPINES WAS ENTERING A NEW PHASE. MACARTHUR'S AND LAWTON'S COLUMNS HAD CAPTURED TOWN AFTER TOWN, AND AGUINALDO'S ARMY HAD BEEN BROKEN UP BY THE HAMMERING BLOWS OF THE AMERICAN FORCES.

THE INSURGENT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR, THE PRESIDENT OF THE FILIPINO CONGRESS AND OTHER HIGH NATIVE OFFICIALS HAD BEEN MADE PRISONERS, BUT AGUINALDO EVADED CAPTURE AND WENT INTO HIDING.

THE INSURGENTS WERE EXHAUSTED, BUT STILL FULL OF FIGHT. AGUINALDO ORDERED HIS OFFICERS TO RETURN TO THEIR HOMES WITH THEIR MEN AND, AFTER A PERIOD OF REST AND PREPARATION, TO BEGIN A RELENTLESS GUERRILLA WAR ON THE AMERICANS.

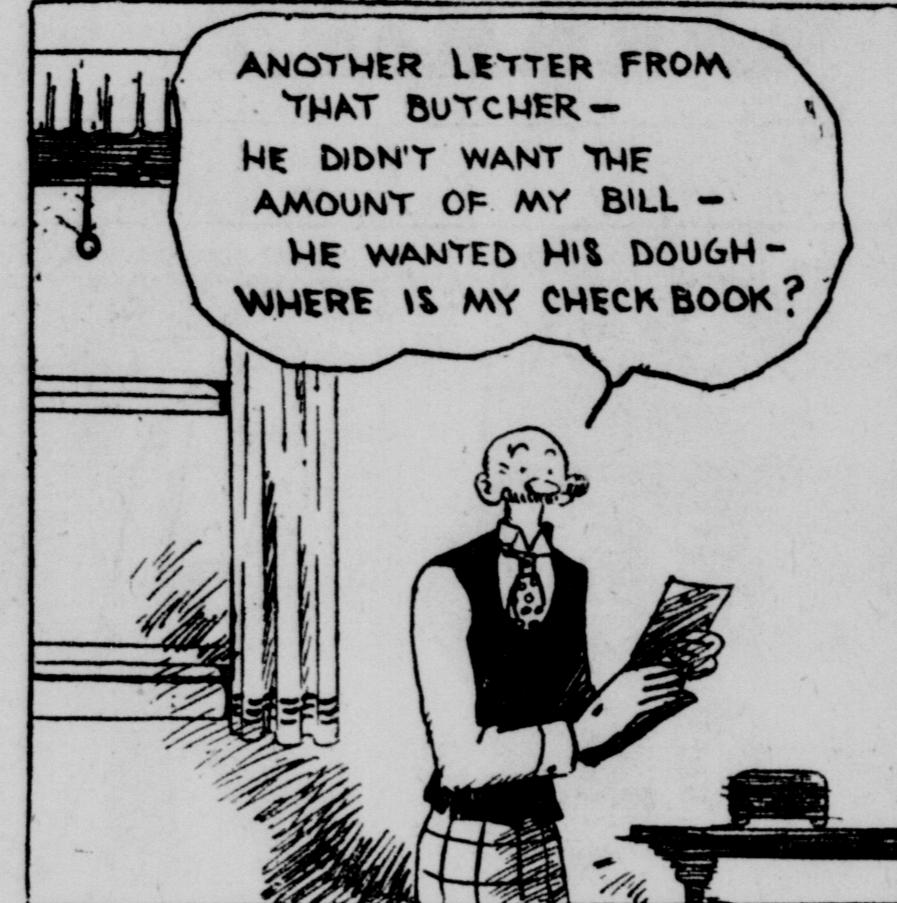

AGUINALDO REMAINED THE MOVING SPIRIT AND GUIDING HAND OF THE INSURRECTION. FROM THE SECURITY OF ONE OF HIS HIDING PLACES IN THE MOUNTAINS OF NORTHERN LUZON HE DIRECTED THE OPERATIONS OF HIS GENERALS. TOMORROW—GUERRILLA WARFARE IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Game On Saturday Means League Lead

New Castle Meets Real Opposition In Battling Evans City High

Both Coaches Report Team Getting In 'Peak' For Coming Tilt

By CHARLES LANDOLF. With one day left Coach Bridenbaugh is drilling his New Castle high basketball team for Saturday night when the undefeated red and black eagles play Evans City in a floor contest at Evans City the winner to head Section Three of the W. P. I. A. L. The local lads are having real workout these days for this important tilt.

No Favorites.

To pick the winner of this game before it is played or even pick the favorite would be foolish. Both teams appear to be evenly matched. Both are undefeated in the league with Evans City according to statistics having played teams with more opposition than the teams New Castle has played. Evans City's record shows victories over Butler high and Ellwood City in the W. P. I. A. L. New Castle took the measure of Mars and Zelienople in the first two games.

May Change Lineup.

Coach Bridenbaugh appears worried over this game. On Saturday night at Evans City a devised lineup may be seen. Then again he may use the same lineup he used in defeating Ambridge high the other night. This was made up of Luther Rowe and Francis Wanio at the forward posts, Arthur Alexander at the pivot and Nick Uram and Ralph McAuley at the guards. Opposition will be keenest than the locals have found it to be so far at Evans City.

He is trying different combinations in the practices in the hope that he may locate one that will stop the Evans City march to the W. P. I. A. L. throne.

Coach Ripper reports his team getting in the peak of condition for the game which will determine the leader of Section Three of the schoolboy league. He intends to use the following lineup which has come through victories in the two W. P. I. A. L. encounters: Kennedy and Patterson at the forwards, Denbow at center and Ripper and Miller at the guards.

Evans City is preparing to take care of a record breaking crowd to watch the conflict which is expected to be one of the best ever witnessed in Evans City. A large crowd will probably follow the red and black eagles from Lawrence county to the scene of the battle Saturday.

Soccer Team To Play At Ambridge

On account of so many games being postponed, and the affairs not being properly taken care of, Mr. H. Fairfield, president of the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association, of which, New Castle, being a member of the Press Beaver Valley Soccer League, which is affiliated with the Association, has ruled that there shall be six games played, to finish the regular schedule.

New Castle Soccer team will, in accordance with the schedule forwarded by Mr. H. Fairfield, travel to Ambridge, tomorrow, Saturday, January 18. All players are asked by Jack Jones, manager to be at the Y. M. C. A. at no later than one o'clock.

Last Night's Fights

AT ATLANTIC CITY—Pete Latzo of Pennsylvania, former welterweight champion, knocked out Eddie Clarks, New York negro (6).

AT BOSTON—Joe Monti of Brockton, lightweight, knocked out Harry Allen, Brockton (4).

AT MIAMI—Spike Webb, Charlotte Red Riley, Troy, welterweight, draw (10).

Ray Newton, Mansfield, O., lightweight, won decision over Don Whitlock, Roanoke (1).

AT PHILADELPHIA—Billy Jones, Philadelphia, scored a technical kaya over Don Petrin, Newark (3).

AT CHICAGO—George Trafton, Chicago, scored technical kaya over Rudy Hoffman (4).

Tom Wilson, Cleveland, won decision over George Kerwin, Chicago (6).

WINTER PRACTICE IN KEEPING THE HEAD DOWN

Amateur Floor Notes

The Carnegie Midgets added the Wampum Boy Scouts to their string of victims at the Carnegie auditorium on Wednesday evening. The score was 39 to 19. The entire Carnegie team shared in the victory over the Scouts. Last night the Midgets downed the Scarlet Five 23 to 12. Vigali and DiGennaro featured for the winners, with Maholic and Ovas the best for the losers. The Carnegie Midgets have won twenty games and have yet to taste defeat this year, they are out to top the midget championship.

Wampum Kandy Kids Basketball Team Take 15 To 10 Victory At New Brighton

In Floor Game In Philadelphia, Pa.

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 17.—"I showed them the Great Art isn't a bust in anything he does," thus Arthur 'The Great' Shires commented today on his debut as a basketball player here last night.

The other boys didn't know how good I was," he explained regarding his failure to score any points, "so they didn't pass to me."

"When I wanted the ball I just went in there and took it away from some fellow."

That's really what he did four times at the ten minutes he played at with the Spas of the South Philadelphia Hebrew Association against the Wilmington quintet in an Eastern League game.

His playing was a big surprise to the Wampum fans present. He revealed that he did know something about the game and intercepted many passes and handled the ball well.

The talkative White Sox first baseman and ex-boxer collected in the ten minutes work.

The Sphas won 38-29.

lars he took part in more games than any other player, stepping up to the plate in 155 contests. Charley answered with 215 safe swats, tying with is teammate Dale Alexander, for the honor of making the most hits. Of these 45 were two-base blows and 19 were triples. He led the league in three-base hits and tied with Heinie Manush and Roy Johnson for doubles honors. Charley also led the league with 27 stolen bases, scored the most runs, 131 and drove in 106 himself.

What an important cog in the Detroit Tiger machine! Charley Gehring was last season in the official American league averages published recently. The star second baseman was one of the real batting stars of the campaign.

Gehring averaged .339 with the stick and while this put him only in 11th place among the league's regu-

two rounds. Trafton rallied and sent his opponent to the canvas for a nine count in the third round.

In the fourth round Trafton again dropped his opponent with a right smash. Hoffman recovered, then sat down voluntarily which was contrary to the rules so Referee McGarry disqualified him.

Kerwin heavy hitter from Chicago in the windup bout.

Taxicab Strike Still Deadlocked

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17.—The deadlock between taxi cab drivers and their employers went into its sixth day here today, with no signs of either side giving in but with federal and state mediators trying to bring the strike to an end.

Thomas G. Robertson, acting president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, said of the strikers that "they have decided to fight until victory crowns their efforts."

The strike started here last Sunday afternoon when drivers protested the recent increase in pay aided only the new men while it actually reduced the income of the older drivers of the Green and Yellow Taxi Cab companies.

Men No Good, Woman
Is Named Dog Catcher

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 17.—After two experiments with men as dog catchers, a woman today had the job.

Mrs. Lillian Lundahl will act without pay, being satisfied to see that the dogs are properly cared for.

EVANSTON's first dog catcher was Clarence Skinner. He lost his job because he was too good. He was so vigilant that even a high-class dog dared not go far without his collar or Skinner would get him and take him for a ride, a term meaning the same in canine as in gangland.

Gene de Servi succeeded Skinner. He took office with the slogan, "every dog will have its day, and every day will have its dog." One of the exploits for which De Servi long will be remembered was his conquest of the iron dog. Mr. De Servi, always zealous, thought the iron dog was a real dog. He leaped and grabbed it, and sprained his hand severely.

Mrs. Lundahl will not necessarily be as good as Skinner. Whenever she hears of a dog that needs catching she will tell the police.

Two Big ProtectorsCranks Have Threatened To Kill
Crooner Unless He Forks
Over $100,000(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—A sleuth by day, a sleuth by night and two sleuths by his side when he appears in public—that's the line of Rudy Vallee, the sweetest crooner of them all, according to reports today.

It seems Rudy has received several letters threatening his life unless he hands over $100,000.

Rudy, it was said, will continue to warble to the tune of $8,000 weekly with high-salaried protection at either hand.

The cradle roll service held Thursday evening in the Salvation Army hall, 26 East street, was well attended by mothers and their babies as well as others. The speaker of the evening was Rev. F. Tyler of the Wesleyan Methodist church. The special song service was conducted by Rev. V. Thomas.

The weekly United holiness meeting will be held this evening with Rev. Abram Shaffer of the Forestville M. E. church as the speaker. Mrs. Garth Kennedy will render special selections at the service.

A cane may indicate vanity, or it may mean that Junior got a toy electric train at Christmas.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things
Around New Castle

It's a poor day lately when a couple of first class, hand sewed, all wool and a yard wide, murder mystery don't break right in your face in this city and county. Just now you can take your pick of three cases with two of them defying solution as yet.

An ordinary news story has had tough sledding for the past few weeks. What might ordinarily expect to rate the front page has been skidded aside and if you hear a loud reverberant explosion on Mercer street, don't call the fire chief. It will merely be a couple of newspaper men exploding.

I'm not sure but I think I'm being insulted, or blackmailed, or threatened or something. Got some pictures in the mail today which happen to be prints taken some four years ago. At that time the picture was quite all right, but I'm not so sure now. Perhaps it isn't blackmail, just a dark brown, say, but whatever it is, what's the price?

Now here's one you'll just love. The Dirty Dozen is reorganized, and the old Slab Town name will be revived. But get this, the new Dirty Dozen is a feminist organization, the old one was composed of he-men, lads who liked their cut plug and tan shoes.

Some of the Slab Town girls, along with some ex-Slab Town girls who are now living up on the North Hill have decided to get together under the name of the Dirty Dozen, and they tell me it is a civic club. Bigger and better somethings or other is to be the motto, and if they can let a little sunshine in then the whole thing will be just a patchwork of smiles.

What Bob Thompson will say to this is beyond me. If you have been around New Castle long enough to remember where Slab Town is, you remember the Dirty Dozen. And if you remember the Dirty Dozen you remember a lot of athletes who hung up some real records. And now the girls have pre-empted the name. O mores! And a cup of coffee!

The young lady who rushes your cakes and coffee up at the Castleton insists that she wasn't wise cracking about that half-and-half cup of coffee. Her story is that a lot of the customers like half of it in the saucer. It makes it easier to blow.

Several of the girls around the various hash foundries of the city are talking of organizing a Dunker's Society. They already have a tentative candidate for Chief Dunker who they say yodels a mean doughnut when he has a cup of coffee to sop it in. The boy is a Big Shot in his line, but he spills his line over the counter.

OWNER CLAIMS

POCKETBOOK

Ladies' pocketbook found several days ago in the city comfort station and turned over to the police to locate the owner, has been turned over to Mary Gulano of Wampum, who proved beyond any question of doubt that the pocketbook was her's. The address, 4 Fern street, found in it, proved to be the address in this city to which she is moving from Wampum. The announcement made in The News that the police had such a pocketbook in their possession was the direct cause of the owner getting back her pocketbook in such a short time.

Mid-Season Shows
Captivating ColorsBy ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 17.—Colors are captivating in the mid-season collections of the chic couturiers, although black and white still remain king and queen of woman's realm and are being shown in such quantities that they have become the subject of not a little comment.

Tissu-pink is the favorite evening shade of one of the dealers who is showing it in fairy fluffy fabrics, as well as the heavier silks and satins.

Pastel medium-blues which are popular for winter woolen street ensembles will continue to be seen all spring. Lelong's collection shows numerous blouses varying from deep purple azures and sapphires to the pale greyish shades.

Greens come in a wide range of tints from a deep tone near billiard to an extremely pale and cream evening shade, called "heart of lettuce."

Banana-green, Veronese and jade are also popular.

White remains very fashionable for sports and the shades just off of white, such as egg-shell, pale-white and deep ivory, are worn for evening.

One house is making great use of prints in all tones. Even satin striped printed chiffons appear in the collection and morning as well as evening gowns.

Brilliant reds, oranges, sapphires, mauve and yellow are to be seen on all occasions, proving once more that almost any color is fashionable, provided it is lovely and becoming.

It is a free man's right to oppose any law if he is careful not to support thugs who oppose it with guns.
